The Political Economy of State Intervention Gavin Poynter,2020-11-25 Both the exponents and critics of neoliberalism assert the dominance of market forces in western nations The Political Economy of State Intervention calls this into question Through a re examination of state intervention in the USA and Britain over the course of the long depression 1970 to date this book argues that the state has performed an increasingly significant role in conserving capital propping up an economic and social order that has lost its productive dynamism The specific forms of capital s dependency on the state may vary however the underlying weaknesses of mature western economies have prompted new forms of state intervention narrowly aimed at conserving capital especially in the wake of the financial crisis The chapters consider factors which are usually posited as explanations for the long depression such as oil price shocks domestic conditions and technological innovation The work argues that the consensus view of neoliberalism has served to underplay the significance of the state's role in failing to lift this long depression in several ways it has lent a greater ideological coherence to the policies pursued by successive governments than they deserve the state has been less subordinate to the market than is usually claimed and more often its maker and there has been a significant growth in jobs located in the private sector that are funded by public money The cumulative effect of this is a narrowing of the state's purpose to conserving capital a role which has contributed to its loss of authority as an institution that claims to represent society as a whole It is theorised that this in turn has led to the insecurities of the existing political order and the rise of populism This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of political economy public policy political theory economics and sociology

Economic Evaluation of Cancer Drugs Iftekhar Khan, Ralph Crott, Zahid Bashir, 2019-06-14 Cancer is a major healthcare burden across the world and impacts not only the people diagnosed with various cancers but also their families carers and healthcare systems With advances in the diagnosis and treatment more people are diagnosed early and receive treatments for a disease where few treatments options were previously available As a result the survival of patients with cancer has steadily improved and in most cases patients who are not cured may receive multiple lines of treatment often with financial consequences for the patients insurers and healthcare systems Although many books exist that address economic evaluation Economic Evaluation of Cancer Drugs using Clinical Trial and Real World Data is the first unified text that specifically addresses the economic evaluation of cancer drugs The authors discuss how to perform cost effectiveness analyses while emphasising the strategic importance of designing cost effectiveness into cancer trials and building robust economic evaluation models that have a higher chance of reimbursement if truly cost effective They cover the use of real world data using cancer registries and discuss how such data can support or complement clinical trials with limited follow up Lessons learned from failed reimbursement attempts factors predictive of successful reimbursement and the different payer requirements across major countries including US Australia Canada UK Germany France and Italy are also discussed The book includes many detailed practical examples case studies and thought provoking exercises for use in classroom and seminar discussions Iftekhar Khan is a medical statistician and health economist and a lead statistician at Oxford University's Center for Statistics in Medicine Professor Khan is also a Senior Research Fellow in Health Economics at University of Warwick and is a Senior Statistical Assessor within the Licensing Division of the UK Medicine and Health Regulation Agency Ralph Crott is a former professor in Pharmacoeconomics at the University of Montreal in Quebec Canada and former head of the EORTC Health Economics Unit and former senior health economist at the Belgian HTA organization Zahid Bashir has over twelve years experience working in the pharmaceutical industry in medical affairs and oncology drug development where he is involved in the design and execution of oncology clinical trials and development of reimbursement dossiers for HTA submission International Project Finance Felix I. Lessambo, 2022-04-18 Economic growth and development critically depends on the quality of infrastructure Each aspect of the economy and its infrastructure are linked systemically Public Private Partnerships PPPs are increasingly being promoted as the solution to the shortfall in financing needed to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs Public private partnerships enable the public entity to utilize the expertise and efficiencies of the private sector to deliver services and facilities that traditionally have been delivered by the public sector either through public sector employees or by traditional procurement methods To be beneficial to all stakeholders a PPP project requires careful planning implementation and strong governance This book breaks down the steps involved and the traps to circumvent Despite its globally growing importance project finance has been somewhat underrepresented in research This book analyzes project finance from an interdisciplinary perspective finance management and international business and includes international laws of arbitration and perspectives of international financial institutions as never endeavored by any previous research projects The book also includes case studies assessing the relevance of private public partnerships by comparing the country expectations and the real outcomes The gap between expectations and results does not necessarily mean that significant progress has not been made To the contrary the book suggests that some of the original targets set may have been unrealistic and that the requisite financial resources or the financial sector policies that could have generated those resources may have been lacking
