Agendas Alternatives And Public Policies:

Agendas, Alternatives, and Public Policies John W. Kingdon, 2011 How does an idea's time come? Participants on the inside of government. Outside of government but not just looking in. Processes: origins, rationality, incrementalism, and garbage cans. Problems: The policy primeval soup, The political stream, The policy window, and joining the streams. Wrapping things up. Some further reflections. Epilogue: Health care reform in the Clinton and Obama Administrations. Appendix on methods.

Agendas, Alternatives and Public Policies John W. Kingdon, 2014 Kingdon's landmark work on agenda setting and policy formation is drawn from interview conducted with people in and around the U.S. federal government and from case studies, government documents, party platforms, press coverage, and public opinion surveys. While other works examine how policy issues are decided, Kingdon's book was the first to consider how issues got to be issues. This enduring work attempts to answer the questions: How do subjects come to officials' attention? How are the alternatives from which they choose generated? How is the governmental agenda set? Why does an idea's time come when it does? Longman is proud to announce that Agendas, Alternatives, and Public Policies has been reissued in this Longman Classics edition featuring a new epilogue: Health Care Reform from Clinton to Obama. Comparing the Clinton administration in 1993 with the Obama administration in 2009 and 2010, Kingdon analyses how agenda setting actors and alternatives affect public policy.

Steelman, 2010-04-15 Over the past three decades, governments at the local, state, and federal levels have undertaken a wide range of bold innovations, often in partnership with nongovernmental organizations and communities, to try to address their environmental and natural resource management tasks. Many of these efforts have failed. Innovations, by definition, are transitory How then can we establish new practices that endure Toddi A Steelman argues that the key to successful and long lasting innovation must be a realistic understanding of the challenges that face it She examines three case studies land management in Colorado watershed management in West Virginia and timber management in New Mexico and reveals specific patterns of implementation success and failure Steelman challenges conventional wisdom about the role of individual entrepreneurs in innovative practice She highlights the institutional obstacles that impede innovation and its longer term implementation while offering practical insight in how enduring change might be achieved Decision-Making in the Agenda in American Politics offers a new look at environmental advocacy that focuses on contemporary lobbying electioneering and agenda setting in this new context Drawing on interviews with activists from a wide range of organizations Robert Duffy describes what environmental groups actually do when lobbying officials or the public He examines activity at both national and state levels to emphasize their growing use of websites email and action alert networks to conduct more sophisticated grassroots campaigns and he shows how they are devoting more funds to unregulated forms of spending such as independent expenditure issue advocacy advertising and public education campaigns Duffy also tracks emerging trends in interest group politics and provides an overview of activism through the early 1990s He then documents the emergence of more aggressive action after 1994 such as providing campaign services to candidates and mounting voter registration drives He also shows how state and local groups have begun to play more important roles in the wake of the rollback of federal environmental regulations Brimming with new insights into interest group lobbies in general and contemporary environmental groups in particular Duffy s book opens a new window on the influence of Big Money in the supposedly democratic electoral process Public Policy James P.
