House of Hunger Alexis Henderson, 2022-09-27 WANTED Bloodmaid of exceptional taste Must have a keen proclivity for life's finer pleasures Girls of weak will need not apply A young woman is drawn into the upper echelons of a society where blood is power in this dark and enthralling Gothic novel from the author of The Year of the Witching Marion Shaw has been raised in the slums where want and deprivation are all she knows Despite longing to leave the city and its miseries she has no real hope of escape until the day she spots a peculiar listing in the newspaper seeking a bloodmaid Though she knows little about the far north where wealthy nobles live in luxury and drink the blood of those in their service Marion applies to the position In a matter of days she finds herself the newest bloodmaid at the notorious House of Hunger There Marion is swept into a world of dark debauchery At the center of it all is Countess Lisavet The countess who presides over this hedonistic court is loved and feared in equal measure She takes a special interest in Marion Lisavet is magnetic and Marion is eager to please her new mistress But when she discovers that the ancient walls of the House of Hunger hide even older secrets Marion is thrust into a vicious game of cat and mouse She'll need to learn the rules of her new home and fast or its halls will soon become her grave

House of Hunger Dambudzo Marechera, 2013 Winner of the Guardian Fiction Prize 1979 and first published in 1978 The House of Hunger is a selection of interconnected short stories that tell of Zimbabwe in chaos In a style somewhat reminiscent of Joyce's Dubliners the stories deal with psychological and social alienation Dambudzo Marechera's work is not material typically associated with African literature His stories are psychologically rather than politically motivated as his depictions of living in exile and outsiderhood show

"waiting for the rain" Katharina Helmer, 2007-02-20 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 2.0 University of Regensburg language English abstract The authors I want to concentrate on in this paper Charles Mungoshi and Dambudzo Marechera are both African writers who belong to the so called second generation of Zimbabwean writers which means that they were born between 1940 and 1959 and published in the 1960s and 70s. They speak for the lost generation which grew up after World War Second in a country reigned by a white minority government and shattered by a guerrilla war against that government and have somehow lost their identity. However, although they were born in the same period of time in the same country and were influenced by the same political and cultural circumstances on which I will put a closer focus later, their lives were very different. Mungoshi grew up in a rural area and stayed in Zimbabwe during the time of war, whereas Marechera was a township child who left Zimbabwe and lived in the exile in England during the time of the war. As a result, their writings, which were heavily influenced by their autobiographies, mirror these differences in their ways of life. In this paper, I will first look at the historical background in which both authors grew up at political, cultural, social, and educational circumstances. Secondly, I am going to depict what their lives looked like and which were the differences and similarities in their ways of life. After that, I will analyse how those differences and also the similarities in their ways of life influenced their writing, made them develop their special own styles, and are mirrored in the themes of their narratives. As an example, I will have a closer look at two of their most important writings, which are Dambudzo Marechera's short story collection The House of Hunger published in 1979 and Charles Mungoshi's novel Waiting for the rain published in 1979, by analysing them concerning the form and the content and also by searching for autobiographical traces in both works. In the end, I will try to compare both writings and depict the most important differences and similarities.
