

2. What were the Three Estates in French society? Explain each.

The First estate represented the Roman Catholic clergy.

The Second estate represented the nobility, with its main governor, King Louis XVI and his "court".

Finally, the Third estate represented the rest of the population, the poorest and largest group of people.

3. According to the website, what led to the explosive anger among the representatives of the Third Estate?

The inequality in distribution of powers and rights between these different estates was the main cause of the explosion of anger amongst Third estate representatives.

The following picture represents the three estates in France. Use it to answer question 4.

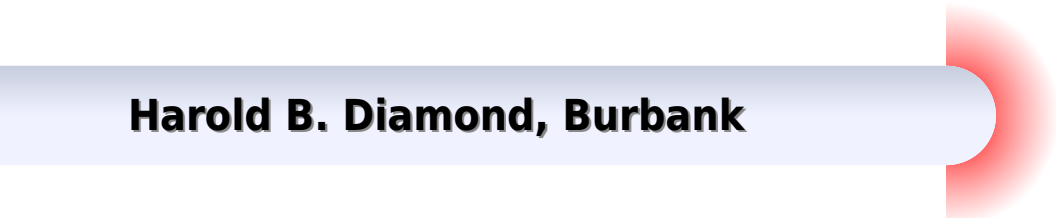

4. In what ways does the picture above represent French society before the French Revolution?

Traditional French society was based on Feudalism in which the First and Second Estate benefited greatly from the Third Estate. The image represents the view of the Third Estate that their hard work sustained the lifestyle of the other two Estates.
