

The book cover features a collage of images related to electrical engineering and electronics. At the top left, there's a close-up of a circuit board with various components and wires. To its right, a rocket is shown launching with a large plume of fire. Below the rocket, a high-voltage power transmission tower stands against a blue sky. In the bottom left, a computer monitor displays a graph, with a keyboard in front of it. The entire cover is divided into a light beige curved section on the left and a dark blue section on the right.
