Aviation in the Literature and Culture of Interwar Britain Michael McCluskey,Luke Seaber,2020-12-01 Aviation in the Literature and Culture of Interwar Britain looks at the impact of aviation in Britain and beyond through the 1920s and 1930s This book considers how in this period flying went from a weapon of war to an extensive industry that included civilian air travel air mail delivery flying shows and campaigns to create air-mindedness Essays look at these developments through the work of writers filmmakers and flyers and examines the air-minded modernism that marked this radical period Its fourteen chapters include studies of texts by Virginia Woolf George Orwell Elizabeth Bowen W H Auden T H White and John Masefield accounts of the annual RAF Display at Hendon and the Schneider Trophy and the achievements of celebrity flyers such as Amy Johnson This collection provides a fresh perspective on the interwar period by bringing analysis of aviation and air-mindedness to the study of British literature history modernism mobilities and the history of technology and transportation What Shall I Read Next? F. Seymour Smith, 1953-01-02 Originally published in 1953 What Shall I Read Next lists nearly 2000 works published after 1900 with the compiler's own appreciatory comments on selected items It was a companion volume to Mr Seymour Smith's English Library Both books are published on behalf of the National Book League In his introduction explaining the scope and purpose of the book Mr Seymour Smith wrote Some will find it useful merely as a shopping list reminding them of books they know something about already and serving as a remembrancer To others and particularly to younger readers it may introduce books which have so far escaped their notice It is hoped too that for booksellers and librarians it will have a practical use as a desk book for answering enquiries for serving as a check list for stock and for use as a reference book when memory fails The Origin of Medieval Drama Leonard Goldstein, 2004 It has been widely accepted that the 10th century liturgical plays developed naturally as a religious entity from the Mass This approach is critiqued in The Origin of Medieval Drama where Leonard Goldstein places the development of the plays within the socio-economic context of the period most notably the rapid rise of feudalism Goldstein argues that the plays were a response by the Church to a decline in faith brought on by the burdens of feudalism on the peasantry However instead of revitalising faith the plays which sought to assure the peasantry of their salvation actually represented and therefore reinforced the emerging private property relation In looking at the origins of ancient Greek drama where scholars have concentrated more on social and cultural issues Goldstein develops a Marxist model for the origins of medieval drama

Rewriting the Thirties Keith Williams, Steven Matthews, 2014-09-25 Rewriting the Thirties questions the myth of the anti-modernist decade Conversely the editors argue it is a symptomatic transitional phase between modern and post-modern writing and politics at a time of cultural and technological change The text reconsiders some of the leading writers of the period in the light of recent theoretical developments through essays on the ambivalent assimilation of Modernist influences among proletarian and canonical novelists including James Barke and George Orwell and among poets including Auden MacNeice Swingler and Bunting and in the work of feminist writers Vera Brittain and Winifred Holtby In this substantial remapping the complexity and scope of literary critical debate at the time is discussed in relation to theatrical innovation audience attitudes to the mass medium of modernity cinema the poetics of suburbia consumerism and national ideology as well as the discursive strategies of British and American documentarism
