A New English Dictionary on Historical Principles James Augustus Henry Murray, 1919 A New English Dictionary on Historical Principles ,1919 A New English Dictionary on Historical Principles Sir James Augustus Henry Murray, 1919 The Jurist ,1851 The Tort of Conversion Sarah Green, John Randall, 2009-11-09 The legal and commercial importance of the tort of Conversion is difficult to overstate and yet there remains a sense that the principles of the tort are elusive Most recently this was illustrated by the difficulties posed for the House of Lords by the Conversion issue in OBG v Allan 2007 UKHL 21 on which it was closely divided Conversion as we now recognise it has a complex pedigree Showing little regard for received taxonomies it has elements which make lawyers think in terms of property despite its eventful descent from actions in personam Conversion is therefore something of a hybrid creature which perhaps explains the paucity of scholarly analysis of the subject to date property lawyers and tort lawyers each regarding it as the other's concern This book is the first comprehensive appraisal of the modern tort of Conversion It offers a coherent and accessible rationalisation of the subject supported by rigorous analysis of all aspects from title to sue to the available remedies The principal thesis of the work is that the development of Conversion has somewhat stagnated and in consequence the tort has so far been unable to fulfil either its theoretical or its practical potential as a legal device Whilst this is partly a result of historical factors it is also a consequence of the fact that no systematic examination of the tort in England appears ever to have been carried out The primary objectives of the book therefore are to provide such an analysis to present Conversion as a useful and important tort well suited to the demands of contemporary law and commerce and to offer a principled framework for its future development Unjust Enrichment in South African Law Helen Scott, 2014-07-18 Conventional thinking teaches that the absence of liability in particular contractual invalidity is itself the reason for the restitution of transfers in the South African law of unjustified enrichment However this book argues that while the absence of a relationship of indebtedness is a necessary condition for restitution in such cases it is not a sufficient condition The book takes as its focus those instances in which the invalidity thesis is strongest namely those traditionally classified as instances of the condictio indebiti the claim to recover undue transfers It seeks to demonstrate that in all such instances it is necessary for the plaintiff to show not only the absence of his liability to transfer but also a specific reason for restitution such as mistake compulsion or incapacity Furthermore this book explores the reasons for the rise of unjust factors in South African law attributing this development in part to the influence of the Roman Dutch restitutio in integrum an extraordinary equitable remedy that has historically operated independently of the established enrichment remedies of the civilian tradition and which even now remains imperfectly integrated into the substantive law of enrichment Finally the book seeks to defend in principled terms the mixed approach to enrichment by transfer an approach based both on unjust factors and on the absence of a legal ground which appears to characterise modern South African law It advocates the rationalisation of the causes of action comprised within the condictio indebiti many of which are subject to additional historically determined requirements in light of this mixed analysis The Ecclesiastical Law of the Church of England Robert Phillimore,1873 Jurist ,1851

Globalization in Prehistory Nicole Boivin,Michael D.
