Emerging Research on Networked Multimedia Communication Systems Kanellopoulos, Dimitris, 2015-08-14 The New Television Handbook Jonathan Bignell, Jeremy Orlebar, Patricia Holland, 2017-07-14 The New Television Handbook provides an exploration of the theory and practice of television at a time when the medium is undergoing radical changes. The book looks at television from the perspective of someone new to the industry and explores the place of the medium within a constantly changing digital landscape. This title discusses key skills involved in television production including producing, production management, directing, camera, sound, editing and visual effects. Each of these activities is placed within a wider context as it traces the production process from commissioning to post production. The book outlines the broad political and economic context of the television industry. It gives an account of television genres in particular narrative, factual programmes and news and it considers the academic discipline of media studies and the ways in which theorists have analysed and tried to understand the medium. It points to the interplay of theory and practice as it draws on the history of the medium and observes the ways in which the past continues to influence and invigorate the present. The New Television Handbook includes contributions from practitioners ranging from established producers to new entrants, a comprehensive list of key texts and television programmes, a revised glossary of specialist terms, a section on training and ways of getting into the industry. By combining theory, real world advice and a detailed overview of the industry and its history, The New Television Handbook is an ideal guide for students of media and television studies and young professionals entering the television industry.

Video Production Techniques Donald Diefenbach, Anne Slatton, 2019-07-31 Video Production Techniques is an essential guide to the art and craft of video production. It introduces students to the theoretical foundations as well as the practical skills needed to make a successful video project. The opening chapter introduces the reader to the language of motion pictures and sets the stage for effective visual storytelling. Unit I guides students through the theory, techniques and processes of writing, shooting and editing video productions. Unit II expands on these basic principles to explore the crafts of sound recording, design, lighting and directing. Unit III surveys the industry's formats and methods for creating fiction and nonfiction programs. The final unit of the text examines options for distribution and career opportunities in video production. Newly updated and revised, the second edition of Video Production Techniques unifies theory and practice for instructors and students. It is a great tool for use in introductory level video production courses and for the independent learner. The accompanying companion website features instructor resources including a sample syllabus, quiz bank, sample assignments and PowerPoint slides for each chapter alongside illustrative video demonstrations for students.
