4.0 too does both but more of the latter. The canvas is huge and like the universe itself it is forever expanding. The term Industry 4.0 means different things to different people and so the predictions from industry experts as well as academics and researchers differ as well. But what all agree on is that the convergence of information technology (IT) and operational technology (OT) will drive manufacturing. The next phase of industrialisation being referred to popularly as the Fourth Industrial Revolution will be different from the earlier ones in that it will also be about life cycles. In short it goes beyond manufacturing. The concept itself is still new and evolving at a frenetic pace. This also makes it difficult for those in industry to go the Industry 4.0 way. Formulating strategies and implementing them needs to start with knowledge. That's where this compendium comes in. This hard bound volume includes among other things vision statements from industry leaders, some best practices and case studies and the F2F Ready Reckoner.

Pollution Control in Textile Industry S.C. Bhatia, 2017-10-26

Textile processing industry is characterised not only by the large volume of water required for various unit operations but also by the variety of chemicals used for various processes. There is a long sequence of wet processing stages requiring input of water, chemical and energy and generating wastes at each stage. Any industrial activity causes pollution in one form or the other and so is the textile industry. The textile industry is a significant contributor to many national economies encompassing both small and large scale operations worldwide. Textile processing generates many waste streams including liquid, gaseous and solid wastes, some of which may be hazardous. Several measures for pollution control in textile industry are discussed in detail including end-of-pipe technologies for wastewater treatment. This book on pollution control in textile industry summarises various aspects of pollution control and is divided into 19 chapters. This edition discusses enzymatic treatment of wastewater containing dyestuffs, degradation of toxic dyes, biological methods of removal of dyes from textile effluents, water conservation in textile industry, recovery of dyes and chromium from textile industry, zero liquid discharge in textile industry, pollution prevention in jute industry and wastes minimisation in textile industry. A unique feature of the book are the chapters on carbon foot print and energy conservation in textile industry. Finally, the role of nanotechnology for the removal of dyes and effluents is also discussed.
