Develop a communication plan in nine steps

A communication plan defines the approach that a program will use to communicate with communities. It shows crucial outcomes, information sharing and feedback communications. The nine steps in this template address the key aspects that programs should consider:

1. Identify your objectives.
2. Choose your target audiences.
3. Design your key messages.
4. Select your communication methods.
5. Plan for two-way communication.
6. Identify your team roles.
7. Draft a budget.
8. Implement the plan.
9. Monitor the results and look for ways to improve.

Each step includes a series of questions to help staff identify the best approach for the program.

Program managers may choose to take the lead in developing a communication plan, as they may work through much of the work steps with their staff. For an example of how to develop the plan as a team, see Helen Smith's article, "How to work with staff to develop a communication plan."

When implementing projects with partners, CBO staff may choose to support the development of communication plans for multiple, by providing the template as a resource or collecting a version for funding & plan.
