Ramet, 2007 With the fall of communism and the breakup of Yugoslavia the successor states have faced a historic challenge to create separate modern democracies from the ashes of the former authoritarian state Central to the Croatian experience has been the issue of nationalism and whether the Croatian state should be defined as a citizens state with members of all nationality groups treated as equal or as a national state of the Croats with a consequent privileging of Croatian culture and language but also with a quota system for members of national minorities Sabrina P Ramet and Davorka Matić have gathered here a series of studies by important scholars to examine the development of Croatia in the aftermath of communism and the war that marred the transition Sixteen scholars of the region discuss the values and institutions central to Croatia's transformation from communism and toward liberal democracy They discuss economic change political parties and the uses of history since 1989 To understand the patterns in Croatia they examine how civic values have been expressed reinforced and sometimes challenged through religion education and the media The implications of nationalism in its various manifestations are treated thematically in all the analyses This book is a companion volume to a similar study on Slovenia edited by Sabrina P Ramet and Danica Fink Hafner and released in fall 2006 Together these two works form an important case study in comparison and contrast between two countries in the same region going through the transition from communism to liberal democracy Scholars and policy makers will find a wealth of material in these two volumes Yellow Star, Red Star Jelena Subotić, 2019-12-15 Yellow Star Red Star asks why Holocaust memory continues to be so deeply troubled ignored appropriated and obfuscated throughout Eastern Europe even though it was in those lands that most of the extermination campaign occurred As part of accession to the European Union Jelena Subotić shows East European states were required to adopt participate in and contribute to the established Western narrative of the Holocaust This requirement created anxiety and resentment in post communist states Holocaust memory replaced communist terror as the dominant narrative in Eastern Europe focusing instead on predominantly Jewish suffering in World War II Influencing the European Union's own memory politics and legislation in the process post communist states have attempted to reconcile these two memories by pursuing new strategies of Holocaust remembrance The memory symbols and imagery of the Holocaust have been appropriated to represent crimes of communism Yellow Star Red Star presents in depth accounts of Holocaust remembrance practices in Serbia Croatia and Lithuania and extends the discussion to other East European states The book demonstrates how countries of the region used Holocaust remembrance as a political strategy to resolve their contemporary ontological insecurities about their identities about their international status and about their relationships with other international actors As Suboti concludes Holocaust memory in Eastern Europe has never been about the Holocaust or about the desire to remember the past whether during communism or in its aftermath Rather it has been about managing national identities in a precarious and uncertain world
