Security With Care Restorative Justice And Healthy Societies:

Security, with Care Elizabeth M. Elliott, 2011 The author argues that restorative justice in Canada and the U S has been co opted and relegated to the sidelines of the dominant criminal justice system that restorative justice transcends that system and that if it isn't who we are then it will never be sustainable it must be a new paradigm for responding to harm and conflict Facilitating this shift requires a rethinking of the assumptions around punishment and justice placing emphasis instead on values and relationships if we can achieve this change we have the potential to build a healthier more ethical and more democratic society

Security, with Care Elizabeth May Elliott, 2011 I learned that the problems were much deeper than a flawed criminal justice system and that our work needed to begin in our relationships with each other and the natural world and most importantly with ourselves from the preface Restorative justice as it exists in Canada and the U S has been co opted and relegated to the sidelines of the dominant criminal justice system In Security With Care Elizabeth M Elliott argues that restorative justice cannot be actualized solely within the criminal justice system If it isn't who we are says Elliott then the policies will never be sustainable Restorative justice must be more than a program within the current system it must be a new paradigm for responding to harm and conflict Facilitating this shift requires a rethinking of the assumptions around punishment and justice placing emphasis instead on values and relationships But if we can achieve this change we have the potential to build a healthier more ethical and more democratic society

Restorative Justice Theo Gavrielides, 2017-09-19 The legitimacy and performance of the traditional criminal justice system is the subject of intense scrutiny as the world economic crisis continues to put pressure on governments to cut the costs of the criminal justice system This volume brings together the leading work on restorative justice to achieve two objectives to construct a comprehensive and up to date conceptual framework for restorative justice suitable even for newcomers and to challenge the barriers of restorative justice in the hope of taking its theory and practice a step further The selected articles start by answering some fundamental questions about restorative justice regarding its historical and philosophical origins and challenge the concept by bringing into the debate the human rights and equality discourses Also included is material based on empirical testing of restorative justice claims especially those impacting on reoffending rates victim satisfaction and reintegration The volume concludes with a critique of restorative justice as well as with analytical thinking that aims to push its barriers. It is hoped that the investigations offered by this volume not only offer hope for a better system for abolitionists and reformists but also new and convincing evidence to persuade the sceptics in the debate over restorative justice. Trauma-Informed Juvenile Justice in the United States

Judah Oudshoorn, 2016-08-23 Most youth who come in conflict with the law have experienced some form of trauma yet many justice professionals are ill equipped to deal with the effects trauma has on youth and instead reinforce a system that further traumatizes young offenders while ignoring the needs of victims. By taking a trauma informed perspective this text provides a much needed alternative one that allows for interventions based on principles of healing and restorative justice rather than on punishment and risk assessment. In addition to providing a comprehensive historical overview of youth justice in Canada Judah Oudshoorn addresses the context of youth offending by examining both individual trauma including its emotional cognitive and behavioural effects and collective trauma. The author tackles some of the most difficult problems facing youth justice today especially the ongoing cycles of intergenerational trauma caused by the colonization of Indigenous peoples and patriarchal violence and demonstrates how a trauma informed approach to youth justice can work toward preventing crime and healing offenders victims and communities. Featuring a foreword written by Howard Zehr case stories from the author's own work with victims and offenders questions for reflection and annotated lists of recommended readings this engaging text is the perfect resource for college and university students in the field of youth justice. Reconstructing Restorative Justice

Philosophy Theo Gavrielides, Vasso Artinopoulou, 2016-04-08 This book takes bold steps in forming much needed philosophical foundations for restorative justice through deconstructing and reconstructing various models of thinking. It challenges current debates through the consideration and integration of various disciplines such as law criminology philosophy and human rights into restorative justice theory resulting in the development of new and stimulating arguments. Topics covered include the close relationship and convergence of restorative justice and human rights some of the challenges of engagement with human rights the need for the recognition of the teachings of restorative justice at both the theoretical and the applied level the Aristotelian theory on restorative justice the role of restorative justice in schools and in police practice and a discussion of the humanistic African philosophy of Ubuntu. With international contributions from various disciplines and through the use of value based research methods the book deconstructs existing concepts and suggests a new conceptual model for restorative justice. This unique book will be of interest to academics researchers policy makers and practitioners. Trauma-Informed Youth Justice

Little Book of Environment and Restorative Justice Wanbli Wapháha Hokšíla, Nirson Medeiros da Silva Neto, João Salm, Josineide Gadelha Pamplona Medeiros, 2025-09-16 A restorative approach to environmental justice This little book discusses paths to address environmental conflicts based on a restorative justice perspective of imagining practicing and living justice It proposes an approach that understands the relationship between humankind and environment beyond the narrow conception of homo economicus considering the human beings in their social political economic historic spiritual cognitive emotional aesthetic and ecological dimensions as well as in their connection with nature and non human entities When applied to environmental problematics restorative justice needs to widen its perspective beyond an anthropocentric worldview transcending the interpretation that human beings are the exclusively subjects of dignity rights needs and speech capability It is necessary to dilate horizons towards non human entities and the natural spaces we inhabit and with whom we are deeply connected This dilation should stimulate justice experiences that integrate building peace sustainability and good living beyond ideas such as unlimited economic growth and even sustainable development To this end a restorative conception of justice implies an expanded understanding of justice that faces structural cultural institutional and historical violence as well as deals with intergenerational responsibility that integrate the present generations to those of the past in order to build the desired future for the generations to come

Minding the Gap Between Restorative Justice, Therapeutic Jurisprudence, and Global Indigenous Wisdom Saade, Marta Vides, Halder, Debarati, 2022-10-28 Foundational principles of the contemporary practices of both restorative justice and the concept of therapeutic jurisprudence often import organic and indigenous practices of conflict resolution to resolve insufficiencies and even to explain fundamental ideas Too often the indiscriminate use of such practices does not mind the gap between the defining principles the guiding principles or the limiting principles that challenge particular features of practical applications Minding the Gap Between Restorative Justice Therapeutic Jurisprudence and Global Indigenous Wisdom gives an authentic voice to practitioners and theorists whose work originates in organic or indigenous conflict resolution It raises awareness of the diversity of approaches to dispute resolution from the deep perspective of their foundations and understands the challenges that arise in the practical application of restorative justice and therapeutic jurisprudence models when using principles disconnected from their foundation It further offers ways to bridge the gap so that it is no longer an obstacle but a source of transformation Covering topics such as justice praxes indigenous conflict resolution and global indigenous wisdom this premier reference source is a dynamic resource for HR managers lawyers government officials mediators counselors students and faculty of higher education librarians researchers and academicians

Reimer,2018-12-01 Restorative justice RJ is an idea whose time may have finally arrived Although the concept has ancient roots and the term has existed in Western societies since the 1970s only recently has it gained general public recognition In schools RJ s popularity is rising world wide In fact education is the fastest growing area for the practice of RJ Despite an increasing number of schools embracing the approach it is not clear what educational RJ practitioners are trying to achieve Adult Intentions Student Perceptions How Restorative Justice is Used in Schools to Control and to Engage focuses on the use of RJ in one school in Scotland and one in Canada While important to understand the intentions of educators in using RJ in schools those aims must be examined alongside the actual impact that such practices have on students RJ can be understood and experienced in dramatically different ways by those implementing it For some RJ is about creating an environment of and for student engagement that challenges traditional systems of discipline and facilitates learning For others RJ is simply another tool for solidifying compliance and meting out punishment albeit in a kinder gentler way Adult Intentions Student Perceptions provides the opportunity to delve deeply into the stories of two schools and the adults and young people who inhabit them and consider the broad impact that differing educator understandings of RJ have on students Adult Intentions Student Perceptions is a timely book for RJ advocates and critics alike It challenges a common assumption of some RJ advocates that implementing RJ necessarily creates a classroom environment of social engagement where students are empowered to engage with one another and think critically and school relationships and hierarchies are transformed The student experience relayed in this book shows that RJ can as readily be mobilized to create classroom environments of social control where students are taught obedience and compliance and authority and hierarchy are reinforced Reimer argues that RJ by itself does not guarantee certain qualities of relationship but RJ does allow us to examine relational qualities and ask questions of how school relationships are used to engage and or control students

Boyd, Connie Carter, 2014-02-05 Since the late 1990s marijuana grow operations have been identified by media and others as a new and dangerous criminal activity of epidemic proportions With Killer Weed Susan C Boyd and Connie Carter use their analysis of fifteen years of newspaper coverage to show how consensus about the dangerous people and practices associated with marijuana cultivation was created and disseminated by numerous spokespeople including police RCMP and the media in Canada The authors focus on the context of media reports in Canada to show how claims about marijuana cultivation have intensified the perception that this activity poses significant dangers to public safety and thus is an appropriate target for Canada's war on drugs Boyd and Carter carefully show how the media draw on the same spokespeople to tell the same story again and again and how a limited number of messages has led to an expanding anti drug campaign that uses not only police but BC Hydro and local municipalities to crack down on drug production Going beyond the newspapers Killer Weed examines how legal political and civil initiatives that have emerged from the media narrative have troubling consequences for a shrinking Canadian civil society
