Gaffney, 2012-10-15 Sandra Gaffney entered her first nursing home for long term care at the unusually young age of fifty Fourteen years earlier she had been diagnosed with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis ALS also known as Lou Gehrig's disease Over the next sixteen years Gaffney lived in nursing homes in Florida Virginia and Minnesota as the ways she could be close to family changed She describes her situation in these words As a nursing home resident I require total or maximum care I have limited use of my hands and arms With special splints I am able to turn the pages of my books use the telephone and TV VCR FM radio remote control When my cup is positioned properly I can drink independently I am able to walk with a platform walker and the help of two nursing assistants My walking is not functional it is only for exercise After I moved into my third nursing home I learned to operate a power wheelchair by using an adaptive switch between my knees All other areas of physical care have to be done for me My speech is impaired If people listen carefully they can understand what I am saying I am able to eat regular food and breathe on my own Gaffney became an acute observer and strategist about how to live in a nursing home Her first person account dictated to family members and assistants covers making the decision to enter a nursing home choosing the right one and understanding its culture She talks about how to furnish your room and about all the issues that arise in a resident's typical day She has much to say about communication with staff and family about how to help others help me Gaffney's daughters Amy and Bridget and her friend Ellen Potter provide additional perspectives on the caregiving experience

Migration, Ethics and Power Dan Bulley, 2016-11-03 In 2014, the ethics and politics of hospitality were brought into stark relief Three years into the Syrian conflict, which had already created nearly 2.5 million refugees and internally displaced 6.5 million, the UN called on industrialised countries to share the burden of offering hospitality through a fixed quota system The UK opted out of the system whilst hailing their acceptance of a moral responsibility by welcoming only 500 of the most vulnerable Syrians Given the state's exclusionary character, what opportunities do other spaces in international politics offer by way of hospitality to migrants and refugees Hospitality can take many different forms and have many diverse purposes But wherever it occurs, the boundaries that enable it and make it possible are both created and unsettled via exercises of power and their resistance Through modern examples including refugee camps, global cities, postcolonial states, and Europe, as well as analysis of Derridean and Foucauldian concepts, Migration, Ethics and Power explores the process and practice of hospitality The spaces that hospitality produces The intimate relationship between ethics and power This is a brilliantly contemporary text for students of politics, international relations, and political geography
