Development Steven W. Schmidt, Kathleen P. King, 2010-09-01 Case studies have become a widely used instructional tool in many educational environments. The use of case studies began in the 1950s at Harvard Business School. Today they may be used as part of a course of study or as the main focus of a course to which other material is added. While the use of case studies is prevalent in schools of business and medicine, they are not often used in adult education or human resource development. This may be because there are no current major publications that deal with the use of case studies in these disciplines, nor are there any major databases of adult education or human resource development case studies for instructors to use. Good case studies can bring reality into the classroom. They can provide frameworks for discussion based on issues that must be faced in real life. Complex case issues can be broken down and examined for greater understanding, then pulled together again for resolution. Case studies can be used successfully in adult education. I propose a book based on the use of case-based learning in adult education and human resource development (HRD). The book could be positioned as a supplement to course textbooks for courses in adult education and HRD. I would write the cases and develop the exercises, but could also get others to contribute a case study or exercise to the book. Cases would each be a half page to maybe 2-3 pages at the long end and would include questions for students/readers. Supplementary information, possibly in the form of a DVD, could be put together for instructors. This information would include case study focal points and examples of possible responses for each study exercise.

My Final Answer Jeremy Maggs, 2021-05-01 Jeremy Maggs has been a journalist and a television and radio presenter for over 30 years with a front row seat to major news events in the run up to and during the birth of South Africa's democracy and beyond. He was also the host of the hugely successful television show Who Wants to Be a Millionaire and so became a household name. He has worked with some of the country's most respected journalists, interviewed many famous people from around the world, and been at the forefront of developments as the craft morphed into a social media hydra. From Nelson Mandela's release from prison to his death in 2013 and throughout the many political and news events that have gripped South Africans, Jeremy has been in the thick of the newsrooms that covered the stories. Written in an engaging and self-deprecating style, this book is an unexpectedly funny and candid behind-the-scenes account of what was unfolding in those newsrooms as the stories broke, peppered with anecdotes around those involved in making those stories happen.

Microeconomics: Case Studies and Applications Jeff Borland, 2020-06-22 Microeconomics Case Studies and Applications contains case studies that explore core microeconomics concepts by focusing on current events in economics and providing a theory refresher for each section and questions. Designed to be a companion text to larger microeconomics texts, this resource offers a useful time-saving alternative to sourcing online articles and journals. As a first-year text, it teaches best practice use of case studies and acts as a stepping stone for students who will source and use articles as they progress through their course. Each case study presents a different application of a core concept or theory. As well as the main text, which presents the application of the core concept, each case study contains a range of extra material. A Theory refresher section provides a quick way for students to revise a key concept or theory that is important for understanding the application in that case study

Why Great Leaders Don't Take Yes for an Answer Michael A. Roberto, 2013. Revised edition of the author's Why great leaders don't take yes for an answer published in 2005.

Self-Taught Chris Edwards, 2022-09-28. The American educational structure is a feudal system designed around an inefficient seat-time model. This structure sets students against each other in competition, creates zip-code inequalities, and empowers an expensive and often damaging bureaucratic class of administrators. Due to shortages of teachers and staff and to needless problems with curricula and testing, this system is about to fall. Historically, when feudal systems collapse, they create opportunities for new structures to emerge Technology has made it possible to develop a new educational model that connects students to their community and reduces pressure on students and teachers This new model makes it possible to deliver high quality education for all students regardless of zip code while turning students into active learners Self Taught Moving from a Seat Time Model to a Mastery Learning Model explains how this process can begin by asking just one question what would you do if you needed to learn something
