Translation, interpreting, cognition Tra&Co Group, 2021 Cognitive aspects of the translation process have become central in Translation and Interpreting Studies in recent years further establishing the field of Cognitive Translatology Empirical and interdisciplinary studies investigating translation and interpreting processes promise a hitherto unprecedented predictive and explanatory power This collection contains such studies which observe behaviour during translation and interpreting The contributions cover a vast area and investigate behaviour during translation and interpreting with a focus on training of future professionals on language processing more generally on the role of technology in the practice of translation and interpreting on translation of multimodal media texts on aspects of ergonomics and usability on emotions self concept and psychological factors and finally also on revision and post editing For the present publication we selected a number of contributions presented at the Second International Congress on Translation Interpreting and Cognition hosted by the Tra Co Lab at the Johannes Gutenberg University of Mainz

Exploring the Situational Interface of Translation and Cognition Maureen Ehrensberger-Dow, Birgitta Englund Dimitrova, 2018-08-02 The contributions of this volume explore the dynamics of the interface between the cognitive and situational levels in translation and interpreting Until relatively recently there has been an invisible line in translation and interpreting studies between cognitive research e.g. into mental processes or attitudes and sociological research e.g. concerning organization status or institutions However rapid developments in translation and interpreting practices professional non professional have brought to the fore the need to rethink theoretical perspectives and to apply new research methods The chapters in this volume aim to contribute to this discussion through conceptual and or empirical research Drawing on different theoretical and methodological frameworks they offer insights into diverse translation and interpreting situations in a number of different countries and cultures and their consequences for individual and collective cognition

Originally published as special issue of Translation Spaces 5 1 2016 Methods and Strategies of Process Research Cecilia Alvstad, Adelina Hild, Elisabet Tiselius, 2011 This volume of papers in honor of Birgitta Englund Dimitrova Reembedding

Translation Process Research Ricardo Muñoz Martín, 2016-10-03 Reembedding Translation Process Research is a rich collection of empirical research papers investigating important new facets of the relationship between translation and cognition The common thread running through the collection is the notion of re embedding the acts of translating and interpreting and the ways we understand them That is they all aim to re situate these acts within what we now know about the brain the powerful relationship of brain and body and the complex interaction between cognition and the environment in which it is embedded Each chapter focuses on a particular aspect of the overall notion of re embedding thereby expanding the breadth of empirical research about translating This book refuses Descartes distinction between mind and brain and reaffirms the highly dynamic emergent and interactive nature of cognitive processes in translation The overarching conclusion is that translation studies should reconsider re embed any model of translation processes that arises without properly accommodating the interdependence of brain body and environment in the emergence of cognition The

Routledge Handbook of Translation and Cognition Fabio Alves, Arnt Jakobsen, 2020-05-31 The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Cognition provides a comprehensive state of the art overview of how translation and cognition relate to each other discussing the most important issues in the fledgling sub discipline of Cognitive Translation Studies CTS from foundational to applied aspects With a strong focus on interdisciplinarity the handbook surveys concepts and methods in neighbouring disciplines that are concerned with cognition and how they relate to translational activity from a cognitive perspective Looking at different types of cognitive processes this volume also ventures into emergent areas such as neuroscience artificial intelligence cognitive ergonomics and human computer interaction With an editors introduction and 30 chapters authored by leading scholars in the field of Cognitive Translation Studies this handbook is the essential reference and resource for students and researchers of translation and cognition and will also be of interest to those working in bilingualism second language acquisition and related areas

Translation in Transition Arnt Lykke Jakobsen, Bartolomé Mesa-Lao, 2017-09-15 Translation practice and workflows have witnessed significant changes during the last decade New market demands to handle digital content as well as technological advances are leading this transition The development and integration of machine translation systems have given post editing practices a reason to be in the context of professional translation services Translators may still work from a source text but more often than not they are presented with already translated text involving different degrees of translation automation This scenario radically changes the cognitive demands of translation Technological development has inevitably influenced the translation research agenda as well It has provided new means of penetrating deeper into the cognitive processes that make translation possible and has endorsed new concepts and theories to understand the translation process Computational analysis of eye movements and keystroke behaviour provides us with new insights into translational reading processes of literality effects of directionality similarities between inter and intralingual translation as well as the effects of post editing on cognitive processes and on the quality of the final outcome All of these themes are explored in depth in the articles in this volume which presents new and valuable insights to anyone interested in what is currently happening in empirical process oriented translation research

Translation and Interpreting as Social Interaction Claire Y. Shih, Caiwen Wang, 2024-01-11 Adopting the tripartite theory of social psychology as its theoretical framework this book advocates that the three components of social interaction affect behaviour and cognition underpin the daily activities of translators and interpreters In particular it argues that the affect or emotion of translators and interpreters should not be overlooked or treated as a separate entity but as a crucial link between their mental process cognition and physical process behaviour This central theme of the intertwining nature of the affect behaviour and cognition of translators and interpreters is examined theoretically empirically and methodologically with contributions from around the world featuring literary translation translator training and interpreters practice It is a timely contribution to the field of Translation Process Research where affect is increasingly recognised as playing a key role in translation and interpreting phenomena

Contesting Epistemologies in Cognitive Translation and Interpreting Studies Sandra L. Halverson, Álvaro Marín García, 2021-12-30 This dynamic collection synthesizes and critically reflects on epistemological challenges and developments within Cognitive Translation and Interpreting Studies problematizing a range of issues These critical essays provide a means of encouraging further development by grounding new theories stances and best practices

The volume is a clear marker of a maturing discipline as decades of empirical study and methodological innovation provide the backdrop for critique and debate. The volume exemplifies tendencies toward convergence and difference while at the same time pushing against disciplinary boundaries and structures. Constructs such as expertise and process are explored and different theories of cognition are brought to the table. A number of chapters consider what it might mean for translation to be a form of situated or 4EA cognition while others query interdisciplinary relationships of foundational importance to the field. Issues of methodology are also addressed in terms of their underlying philosophical assumptions and implications. This book will be of interest to scholars working at the intersection of translation and cognition in such fields as translation studies, cognitive science, psycholinguistics, semiotics, and philosophy of science.

Interdisciplinarity in Translation and Interpreting Process Research Maureen Ehrensberger-Dow, Susanne Göpferich, Sharon O'Brien, 2015-06-15. First published as a special issue of Target issue 25.1 2013, this volume explores interdisciplinarity in translation and interpreting process research fields that have enjoyed a boom in the last decade. For this reason, the time was ripe for a reflection on the broad range of methodologies that have been applied in our endeavours to understand both translation and interpreting processes better. The ten chapters provide a snapshot of how translation and interpreting process researchers have availed themselves of concepts and theories developed in other disciplines such as psychology, the cognitive sciences, journalism, and literary studies to examine and illuminate their object of study. This collection demonstrates that translation and interpreting process research borrow heavily from other disciplines and call for a consideration of how translation research can become truly interdisciplinary through increased collaboration, synergy, and mutual advancement.

The Routledge Handbook of Translation, Interpreting and Bilingualism Aline Ferreira, John W. Schwieter, 2023-01-31. Translation and interpreting can be seen as two special sub types of bilingual communication. The field of bilingualism from developmental, cognitive, and neuroscientific perspectives is highly relevant to Translation and Interpreting Studies. The Routledge Handbook of Translation, Interpreting and Bilingualism is the first handbook to bring together the related yet disconnected fields of bilingualism and translation and interpreting studies. Edited by leading scholars and authored by a wide range of established authorities from around the world, the Handbook is divided into six parts and encompasses theories and methods, the development of translator and interpreter competence, and cognitive, neuroscientific, and social aspects. This is the essential guide to bilingualism for advanced students and researchers of Translation and Interpreting studies and key reading on translation and interpreting for those studying and researching bilingualism.
