African Youth and the Persistence of Marginalization Danielle Resnick, James Thurlow, 2015-04-10 The much heralded growth and transformation of many economies in sub Saharan Africa over the last decade continues to receive prominent attention in academic scholarship and among policy practitioners An apparent feature about this transformation however is that Africa s youth appear to have been left out This book critically examines the extent and consequences of the marginalization of African youth It questions conventional wisdoms about data trends aspirational goals and common policy interventions surrounding Africa s youth that have been variously propagated in both the development studies literature and in mainstream donor policy reports The book explores macro trends from both a temporal and cross regional perspective in order to highlight what is distinct about contemporary African youth and whether their prospects and behaviours do actually vary from their counterparts in other regions of the world or from previous generations of African youth Such studies include cross country analyses of youth employment patterns and modes of political participation in depth examination of the behaviours and aspirations of the urban youth and critical reflections on the impact of rural employment initiatives vocational education and learnership programmes The incorporation of multiple methods and disciplines as well as its attention to policy issues ensures that the book will be of great interest to graduate students researchers and professional researchers whose work lies at the intersection of African area studies and development studies as well as those focused on development economics political science and public policy and administration

Higher Education and Capacity Building in Africa Hanne Kirstine Adriansen, Lene Møller Madsen, Stig Jensen, 2015-11-06 Higher education has recently been recognized as a key driver for societal growth in the Global South and capacity building of African universities is now widely included in donor policies The question is how do capacity building projects affect African universities researchers and students Universities and their scientific knowledges are often seen to have universal qualities therefore capacity building may appear straight forward Higher Education and Capacity Building in Africa contests such universalistic notions Inspired by ideas about the geography of scientific knowledge it explores what role specific places and relationships have in knowledge production and analyses how cultural experiences are included and excluded in teaching and research Thus the different chapters show how what constitutes legitimate scientific knowledge is negotiated and contested In doing so the chapters draw on discussions about the hegemony of Western thought in education and knowledge production The authors own experiences with higher education capacity building and knowledge production are discussed and used to contribute to the reflexive turn and rise of auto ethnography This book is a valuable resource for researchers and postgraduate students in education development studies African studies and human geography as well as anthropology and history

African football migration Paul Darby, James Esson, Christian Ungruhe, 2022-01-25 The global success of football icons like Samuel Eto o Didier Drogba and Mohamed Salah has fuelled the migratory projects of countless young men across the African continent who dream of following literally and figuratively in their footsteps Drawing on over a decade of ethnographic research African football migration captures and chronicles the aspirations experiences and trajectories of those pursuing this highly prized form of transnational migration In doing so the book uncovers and traces the myriad actors networks and institutions that affect the ability of young people across the continent to realise social mobility through football s global production network The book sheds critical light on the barriers to social mobility erected by neoliberal capitalism and how these are negotiated by aspiring African footballers It also generates original interdisciplinary perspectives on the complex interplay between structural forces and human agency as young players navigate an industry rife with commercial speculation While a select few reach the elite levels of the game and build a successful career overseas the book vividly illustrates how for the vast majority trying their luck through football results in involuntary immobility in post colonial Africa These findings are complemented by rare empirical insights from transnational African migrants at the margins of the global football industry and those navigating precarious retirement from careers as players African football migration offers essential coverage of why and how African youth and young men have become actors in the global football industry revealing the complex implications of transnational mobility both imagined and enacted Life after Guns Abby Hardgrove,2017-05-05 Life After Guns explores how ex combatants and other post war youth negotiated a depleted and difficult social and cultural landscape in the years following Liberia s fourteen year bloody civil war Unlike others who study child soldiers Abby Hardgrove s ethnography looks at both former combatants and also the youth who were not recruited to fight She focuses on the structural constraints and household and family organizations that either helped or limited opportunities as these young men grew into adulthood Whether young men fought or not and whether they had cultural capital before the war or not family relations mattered a great deal in how they fared after the war New Urban Worlds AbdouMaliq Simone,Edgar Pieterse,2018-03-15 It is well known that the world is transitioning to an irrevocable urban future whose epicentre has moved into the cities of Asia and Africa What is less clear is how this will be managed and deployed as a multi polar world system is being born The full implications of this challenge cry out to be understood because city building and retrofitting cannot but be an undertaking entangled in profound societal and cultural shifts In this highly original account renowned urban sociologists AbdouMaliq Simone and Edgar Pieterse offer a call for action based fundamentally on the detail of people s lives Urban regions are replete with residents who are compelled to come up with innovative ways to maintain or extend livelihoods whose makeshift character is rarely institutionalized into a fixed set of practices locales or organizational forms This novel analytical approach reveals a more complex relationship between people the state and other agents than has previously been understood As the authors argue we need adequate concepts and practices to grasp the composition and intricacy of these shifting efforts to make visible new political possibilities for action and social justice in cities across Asia and Africa 2019 Global food policy report International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI),2019-03-27 IFPRI s flagship report reviews the major food policy issues developments and decisions of 2018 and considers challenges and opportunities for 2019 This year s Global Food Policy Report highlights the urgency of rural revitalization to address a growing crisis in rural areas Rural people around the world continue to struggle with food insecurity persistent poverty and inequality and environmental degradation Policies institutions and investments that take advantage of new opportunities and technologies increase access to basic services create more and better rural jobs foster gender equality and restore the environment can make rural areas vibrant and healthy places to live and work Drawing on recent findings IFPRI researchers and other distinguished food policy experts consider critical aspects of rural revitalization 2020 Global food policy report: Building inclusive food systems International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI),2020-04-06 Food systems are at a critical juncture they are evolving quickly to meet growing and changing demand economic analysis of violence against workers and a micro political analysis of the violence in women's reproductive lives. These analyses come together to create a new explanation of why violence persists, a new political economy of violence against women and a new theoretical understanding of the relation between production and reproduction. Three case studies are discussed: the Democratic Republic of the Congo, violence in an era of conflict; Sierra Leone, violence post conflict; and Tanzania, which has not seen armed conflict on the mainland. This book fills a significant gap on the political economy of war and women's gender for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as researchers in African Studies, Gender Studies and Peace and Conflict Studies.

General Labour History of Africa Stefano Bellucci, Andreas Eckert, 2019. The first comprehensive and authoritative history of work and labour in Africa, a key text for all working on African Studies and Labour History worldwide.

Political Transition and Inclusive Development in Malawi Dan Banik, Blessings Chinsinga, 2016-06-10. Malawi is among the few countries in sub-Saharan Africa that has witnessed significant improvements in relation to meeting the Millennium Development Goal (MDG) targets. It exhibits some of the main challenges facing African democracies while they attempt to consolidate the benefits of democratisation. Political Transition and Inclusive Development in Malawi critically analyses opportunities and constraints related to the impact of democracy on development in one of the world's poorest countries. The book explores how and to what extent processes related to democratic and economic governance can be strengthened in order to make political and administrative authorities more responsive to development needs. It also considers characteristics of successful implementation of public policy and the effective and timely delivery of basic services in local contexts, increased citizen participation and dialogue with local government authorities, factors that enable civil society organisations to hold political and administrative officials to account, and better utilisation of academic research for improved evidence-based policy formulation and implementation. This volume will be of great interest to scholars in development studies, African studies, politics, law and anthropology, as well as policymakers and those interested in democracy, governance, human rights and the implementation of anti-poverty programmes, development administration and decentralisation.

Development and Poverty Reduction Yongnian Zheng, Jiwei Qian, 2019-10-28. Although the absolute number of poor people in the world has declined significantly in recent decades, poverty reduction continues to be a very important issue. There still are very large numbers of poor people; relative poverty is an increasingly concerning problem, and progress on poverty reduction varies enormously from one part of the world to another. Factors contributing to poverty reduction include economic growth, economic integration and specific poverty reduction programs, which are often initiated by Western countries. This book considers poverty reduction from a global perspective. Development and Poverty Reduction looks at a wide range of specific subjects across all continents. It highlights in particular how the issues are perceived from a non-Western perspective and especially how the rise of China is both having a profound impact on poverty reduction globally and also changing the overall way in which development and poverty reduction are approached. Contract farming and public–private partnerships in aquaculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-10-31 Through an array of project outcomes in different countries this paper demonstrates that contract farming is a win-win solution because young workers gain access to markets while private companies have access to produce without acquiring land or supervising labour

Africa's Urban Youth Amy S. Patterson, Tracy Kuperus, Megan Hershey, 2023-08-10 Draws from extensive fieldwork in three countries to show how African youth negotiate citizenship through daily obligations, relationships and political engagement

Youth and Jobs in Rural Africa Valerie Mueller, James Thurlow, 2019 Many people believe that Africa will struggle to create jobs for its rapidly growing population and that rural youth will eventually migrate to cities or other countries. This book uses survey data to create a nuanced understanding of the constraints and opportunities facing rural youth in Africa

HIV and East Africa Janet Seeley, 2015-03-24 By tracing the shadow of the epidemic over the last 30 years in Uganda and more broadly in the region, HIV and East Africa investigates the impact of the epidemic on people's lives and livelihoods, placing the epidemic within the context of the social, political and economic changes that have occurred over the last three decades. Whilst it inevitably touches on loss and suffering, the message is also about managing the impact of an epidemic which has had a profound impact on many lives. When one looks for traces in southern Uganda, once thought to be the epicentre of the epidemic, it is hard to see any lasting impact at a community-wide level. Delve deeper and there are scars to be found among families and patterns of change which are a direct result of the epidemic. The book goes on to explore the effect of improved treatment and care on perceptions of the epidemic and concludes by putting HIV into the context of other disease outbreaks, reflecting on what we can learn from the history of other epidemics as well as the last 30 years of the HIV epidemic.

Youth Employment Programmes in Africa Ramos E. Mabugu, Lucas Ronconi, 2025-10-03 This book investigates youth employment programmes across nine African countries, providing important insights into the world's youngest continent by population, in which 60% of people are aged under 25. By 2050, the labour force in sub-Saharan Africa is expected to be almost double the size of the labour force in high-income countries, representing a massive shift in the world's working population and providing a significant challenge for job creation. In this book, contributors bring together insights from more than 500 in-depth interviews and 1,500 focus group participants to consider whether youth employment programmes are effectively reaching vulnerable groups. This book tackles the problem of political clientelism in the allocation of benefits and considers the level of coordination that is taking place across programmes and political institutions. Combining rich empirical findings with data about labour market outcomes and institutions, this book will be an important read for researchers wishing to understand the political economy of youth employment policy in Africa.
