has not had a measurable impact on the daily lives of African American families As the book shows racial inequality persists we re clearly not in a postracial society Contemporary African American Families Dorothy Smith-Ruiz, Sherri Lawson Clark, Marcia Watson, 2016-10-04 For decades the black community has been perceived both in the United States and around the world as one which thinks alike acts alike and lives alike in poor and downtrodden environments Following the persistent effects of the great recession and the American elections of 2008 now more than ever the political and socio economic state of America is crying out for this deficient and prejudiced conception to be dispelled Focusing primarily on black families in America Contemporary African American Families updates empirical research by addressing various aspects including family formation schooling health and parenting Exploring a wide class spectrum among African American families this text also modernizes and subverts much of the research resulting from Moynihan s 1965 report which arguably misunderstood the lived experiences of black people during the movement from slavery to freedom in a Jim Crow society A timely subversion of the myth that America is successfully in a post racial era this new anthology on the Black Family in America will appeal to advanced undergraduate students and research scholars interested in black studies Africana studies women and gender studies sociology political science anthropology criminal justice education psychology public policy healthy policy and social work Group Work with Populations at Risk Geoffrey L. Greif, Carolyn Knight, 2017 This skills focused group work book equips students and practitioners to address the needs of a wide range of under served populations Particular attention is paid to building skills for serving a wide range of social and emotional client needs across the lifespan in a variety of settings

African Americans by the Numbers Glenn L. Starks, 2017-07-14 Provides an invaluable source for students as well as academics on the current condition of African Americans highlighting disparities throughout an array of social economic and political areas African Americans comprise approximately 12 percent of the population of the United States a sizable proportion Yet African Americans are incarcerated at rates disproportionate to their overall population in the United States By examining a wide range of socioeconomic topics and supplying necessary background and contextual information this book offers a multidimensional view of African American life that covers such critical areas as education health immigration and migration employment and the economy This statistical guide presents extensive demographics on African Americans breaks down the hard numbers explains what the statistics indicate about the socioeconomic condition of African American life and places this information into historical and contemporary context This book also provides detailed comparisons of African Americans to other races and ethnic groups Readers will be challenged to interpret the numbers and draw logical conclusions from them as a result this reference serves to help students build critical thinking skills that are essential to success in the classroom and beyond African Americans at Risk Glenn L. Starks, 2015-06-22 With all of the progress African Americans have made they still face many risks that threaten the entire race or place segments in jeopardy of survival This work examines the widespread problem and suggests solutions This two volume set examines the issues and policies that put African Americans at risk in our culture today utilizing the most recent research from scholars in the field to provide not only objective encyclopedic information but also varying viewpoints to encourage critical thinking The entries comprehensively document how African Americans are treated differently have more negative outcomes in the same situations than other races and face risks due to issues inherent in their past or current social and economic conditions Care is taken to note distinctions between subgroups and not further a blanket approach to the diverse members of this minority population Intended for members of the African American community societal scholars students in the fields of health social studies and public policy as well as general readers this work will provide readers with a deeper understanding of key components affecting the lives of African Americans today

Policing Black Bodies Angela J. Hattery, Earl

Smith, 2017-12-08 From Trayvon Martin to Freddie Gray the stories of police violence against Black people are too often in the news In Policing Black Bodies Angela J Hattery and Earl Smith make a compelling case that the policing of Black bodies goes far beyond these individual stories of brutality They connect the regulation of African American people in many settings including the public education system and the criminal justice system into a powerful narrative about the myriad ways Black bodies are policed Policing Black Bodies goes beyond chronicling isolated incidents of injustice to look at the broader systems of inequality in our society how they re structured how they harm Black people and how we can work for positive change The book discusses the school to prison pipeline mass incarceration and the prison boom the unique ways Black women and trans people are treated wrongful convictions and the challenges of exoneration and more Each chapter of the book opens with a true story explains the history and current state of the issue and looks toward how we can work for change The book calls attention to the ways class race and gender contribute to injustice as well as the perils of colorblind racism that by pretending not to see race we actually strengthen rather than dismantle racist social structures Policing Black Bodies is a powerful call to acknowledge injustice and work for change

African Americans and Homeschooling Ama

Mazama, Garvey Musumunu, 2014-08-27 Despite greater access to formal education both disadvantaged and middle class black students continue to struggle academically causing a growing number of black parents to turn to homeschooling This book is an in depth exploration of the motivations behind black parents decision to educate their children at home and the strategies they ve developed to overcome potential obstacles Citing current issues such as culture religion and safety the book challenges the commonly expressed view that black parents and their children have divested from formal education by embracing homeschooling as a constructive strategy to provide black children with a valuable educational experience

Resilience Across Contexts Ronald D. Taylor,Margaret C Wang,2012-12-06 A number of societal risks pose serious challenges to families well being many of which cut across divisions of class and race These challenges include changes in the labor market and economy the increasing participation of mothers in the labor force the changing nature of family structure and the composition of households and the increase in the number of immigrant families Key institutions in the lives of families including places of employment and schools can play a significant role in fostering families capacity to adapt to the potential challenges they face Resilience Across Contexts Family Work Culture and Community presents papers written by leading scholars in varied disciplines including economics developmental and educational psychology education and sociology discussing factors that influence resilience development The authors research focuses on emerging issues that have significant implications for policy and practice in such areas as employment and new technologies maternal employment and family development family structure and family life immigration migration acculturation and education of children and youth and social and human services delivery The book s overall goal is to take stock of what is known from research and practice on some of the challenges facing children and families for policy development and improvement of practices

Caring for the Vulnerable Mary De Chesnay,2005 This text explores vulnerability from the perspective of individuals groups communities and populations and addresses the implication of that vulnerability for nurses nursing and nursing care Organized into six units the text presents a basic structure for caring for the vulnerable and forms a theoretical perspective on caring within a cultural context with the ultimate goal of providing culturally competent care Written specifically for nurses by nurses Caring for the Vulnerable is a timely and necessary response to the culturally diverse vulnerable populations for whom nurses must provide appropriate and precise care

The Strengths of African American Families Robert B. Hill,1999-01-14 Returning to his innovative work of twenty five years ago Robert Hill once more offers an incisive analysis of five key cultural strengths of African American families With compassion and eloquence he argues that these existing strengths provide a solid foundation upon which to develop the kind of public policies and self help initiatives that will truly promote the interests not only of the African American community but of our diverse nation as a whole

Defining Prevention Science Zili Sloboda,Hanno Petras,2014-07-08 Whoever coined the adage an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure could not have known how important this adage would become The challenge of altering the health trajectories of poor lifestyle decisions for such behaviors as smoking drinking and using illicit drugs violence dropping out of school engagement in risky sexual behaviors and crime through prevention research has led to a new discipline prevention science Defining Prevention Science covers this emerging field of science its goals its conceptual and theoretical foundations its methods and especially its utility Not content to simply differentiate the field from its close allies epidemiology psychology neuroscience sociology economics the text explains how these many disciplines enhance each other at both research and intervention levels and how prevention science draws on these biological behavioral and social sciences to create an innovative knowledge base that has provided cost effective evidence based prevention interventions and policies To this end familiar developmental benchmarks are recast in prevention health promotion context from the crucial importance of adolescence in encountering and deterring high risk behaviors to the risks and resiliencies of single mother families An international group of contributors offers current findings up to date methods for effective evidence based interventions and improvements in research technologies in these key areas Physical cognitive and emotional vulnerability across the life course The roles of developmental influences in prevention Intervention development delivery and implementation Bringing the intervention approach to research design New directions in analytic methods Cost analysis and policy implications

Advances in Prevention Science Defining Prevention Science aims to inspire further refinements in the field and encourage communication among researchers in its own and related disciplines including public health epidemiology psychology and criminology This is the first volume in the series Advances in Prevention Science that provides the framework for other volume that will focus on such issues as Prevention Science in School Settings Complex Relationships and Processes Preventing Crime and Violence and The Prevention of Substance Use
