Wittich,1994-05-06 Deep Stall Philip K. Lawrence,David W. Thornton,2017-05-15 Deep Stall applies a framework of strategic analysis to the Boeing Company Boeing is the world s largest aerospace defence company with turnover in the region of US 60bn The book examines the relative decline of Boeing in the civil aircraft market in relation to European manufacturer Airbus The aim of the book is to utilize the concept of strategic value to explain Boeing s decline The authors define this concept as investment in people and technology to leverage future market success by developing innovative new products arguing that Boeing has neglected strategic value in favour of shareholder value defined in terms of short term cash benefits The rationale for the book exists both in the fact that the story in itself is interesting and also in the wider framework of analysis concerning the correct strategic approach for running a high technology business The argument illustrates what can happen when quarterly returns become the predominant strategic rationale for a company In the U S the business media Economist Forbes Fortune and Business Week etc are now focusing on the question of Boeing s decline and the major implications for the U S national interest Boeing is one of the jewels in the US technology crown but today U S jobs and capability are being exported abroad with most of its aircraft program work based in Asia This is a hot topic in the US which explains why the business media are now so interested in this question The book sits squarely in the centre of this debate Deep Stall concludes with a brief analysis of the recent fight back that has been evident in Boeing s fortunes and the successful campaign to sell the new 787 The authors probe the question of whether Airbus or Boeing is likely to dominate in the next ten or fifteen years Illustrated Guide to Cargo Aircraft and Air Freight Containers (ULDs) ,

Software for Dependable Systems National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Computer Science and Telecommunications Board,Committee on Certifiably Dependable Software Systems,2007-09-14 The focus of Software for Dependable Systems is a set of fundamental principles that underlie software system dependability and that suggest a different approach to the development and assessment of dependable software Unfortunately it is difficult to assess the dependability of software The field of software engineering suffers from a pervasive lack of evidence about the incidence and severity of software failures about the dependability of existing software systems about the efficacy of existing and proposed development methods about the benefits of certification schemes and so on There are many anecdotal reports which although often useful for indicating areas of concern or highlighting promising avenues of research do little to establish a sound and complete basis for making policy decisions regarding dependability The committee regards claims of extraordinary dependability that are sometimes made on this basis for the most critical of systems as unsubstantiated and perhaps irresponsible This difficulty regarding the lack of evidence for system dependability leads to two conclusions 1 that better evidence is needed so that approaches aimed at improving the dependability of software can be objectively assessed and 2 that for now the pursuit of dependability in software systems should focus on the construction and evaluation of evidence The committee also recognized the importance of adopting the practices that are already known and used by the best developers this report gives a sample of such practices Some of these such as systematic configuration management and automated regression testing are relatively easy to adopt others such as constructing hazard analyses and threat models exploiting formal notations when appropriate and applying static analysis to code will require new training for many developers However valuable though these practices are in themselves no silver bullet and new techniques and methods will be required in order to build future software systems to the level of dependability that will be required
