Computer Safety, Reliability, and Security Maritta Heisel, Peter Liggesmeyer, Stefan Wittmann, 2004-09-09 The importance of safety and security is growing steadily Safety is a quality characteristic that traditionally has been considered to be important in embedded systems and security is usually an essential property in business applications There is certainly a tendency to use software based solutions in safety critical applications domains which increases the importance of safety engineering techniques These include modelling and analysis techniques as well as appropriate processes and tools And it is surely correct that the amount of confidential data that require protection from unauthorized access is growing Therefore security is very important On the one hand the traditional motivations for addressing safety and security still exist and their relevance has improved On the other hand safety and security requirements occur increasingly in the same system At present many software based systems interact with technical equipment and they communicate e.g. with users and other systems Future systems will more and more interact with many other entities technical systems people the environment In this situation security problems may cause safety related failures It is thus necessary to address safety and security It is furthermore required to take into account the interactions between these two properties
