

CHAPTER TWO

CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK FOR CORPORATE RESTRUCTURING, MERGERS AND ACQUISITIONS

2.1 Introduction to Corporate Restructuring:

A change in the existing environment of business, calls for a change in the way in which companies within that business environment operate. If the change in environment is drastic, then the change in companies would also have to be as dramatic, sometimes even more so. When this dramatic change is to do with changing the entire structure of the company, it is known as Corporate Restructuring. Any type of restructuring is aimed at either growth or achieving sustainability.

An entrepreneur may grow his business either by internal expansion or by external expansion. In the case of internal expansion, a firm grows gradually over time in the normal course of the business, through acquisition of new assets, replacement of the technologically obsolete equipments and the establishment of new lines of products. But in external expansion, a firm acquires a running business and grows overnight through corporate combinations. These combinations are in the form of mergers, acquisitions, amalgamations and takeovers and have now become important features of corporate restructuring. They have been playing an important role in the external growth of a number of leading companies the world over. They have become popular because of the enhanced competition, breaking of trade barriers, free flow of capital across countries and globalisation of businesses. In the wake of economic reforms, Indian industries have also started restructuring their operations around their core business activities through acquisition and takeovers because of their increasing exposure to competition both domestically and internationally.

Mergers and acquisitions are strategic decisions taken for maximisation of a company's growth by enhancing its production and marketing operations. They are being used in a wide array of fields such as information technology, telecommunications, and business process outsourcing as well as in traditional businesses in order to gain strength, expand the customer base, cut competition or enter into a new market or product segment.

Chapter Two Shodhganga:

The War that Made R&AW Anusha Nandakumar, Sandeep Saket, 2025-06-30 Two events in the 1960s underlined the urgent need to restructure and revitalise India's Intelligence system the 1962 war against China and the one against Pakistan in 1965 both shocking instances of failures in information gathering The officer who would be given charge of this task was R N Kao someone as unlike romanticised ideals of spies in films and novels as possible The founder chief of India's Research and Analysis Wing lived and operated from the shadows Understated and gentlemanly he may not have looked the part but Kao undoubtedly put Indian Intelligence on the world map In this riveting book authors Anusha Nandakumar and Sandeep Saket trace the roots of modern Indian espionage and describe the newly formed R of covert operations courage and quick thinking and of how wars are won as much off the battlefield as on it Myriad Shades of Life in Mirza Ghalib Tasleem

A. War, 2021-01-28 The book is an anthology of seven critical essays on the work of Mirza Ghalib and considers a number of issues such as comparisons between him and Muhammad Iqbal William Shakespeare and John Donne It also foregrounds the most distinguishing features in his poetry including his art of dialectical poetics the obsession with the theme of death throughout his poetry and the representation of Karbala and Ahle Bayt in his work The book thus highlights the different shades of meaning in both his poetry and letters These myriad shades are embedded in Ghalib's vision of life Like Shakespeare and Sophocles Ghalib details the colourfulness of life in all its horror and glory Just as life itself is colourful in its myriad shades Ghalib's poetry offers us a vision of life which is pluralistic multifarious and universal at the same time
