On the morning of 1942, the Acting Secretary wrote the following letter to the Acting Director, FBI, Washington, D.C.:

Abstract

1. The above information, that Pacific war survivors were discriminated against following the war, is not a new discovery in connection with Japanese war criminal investigations but has long been an open secret. Even before the Pacific War, Japanese were known to discriminate against Koreans and Chinese who had been living in Japan. After the war, the Japanese government discriminated against Koreans and Chinese who had been living in Japan. The Japanese government discriminated against Koreans and Chinese who had been living in Japan. The Japanese government discriminated against Koreans and Chinese who had been living in Japan.
