

Assessment of Knowledge, Attitude, and Practices on HIV/AIDS Patient Care among Clinical Medical Students at KIUTH

Ihato Ivor Twirire

Medicine and Surgery at Kampala International University, Ishiaka Western Campus, Uganda

ABSTRACT

Globally, HIV-related deaths have fallen, most likely due to the intervention of Highly Active Anti-Retroviral Therapy (HAART). New HIV infections have fallen by about 35% since 2016, with approximately 180 000 newly infected in 2021, compared to approximately 270 000 in 2016. The study assessed knowledge, attitude, and practices on HIV/AIDS patient care among clinical medical students at Kampala International University Teaching Hospital (KIUTH). Using a questionnaire as a method of data collection, the descriptive study design included both male and female participants from a population of 322 people. The study showed that there was good knowledge of students on HIV patient care, as all the students knew how HIV is diagnosed at an odds ratio of 1.0 (0.5–4.22) and a p-value of 0.05, although 127 (70.6%) of those who had never taken care of people living with HIV didn't know different HIV ART combinations. The study also showed good student attitudes towards HIV patient care, in which most students were willing to stay near HIV patients and treat them at an odds ratio of 0.7 (0.002–8.05) and a p-value of 0.444, but poor practices, in which only 142 (44.1%) had cared for HIV and 61.7% had never counselled HIV patients at an odds ratio of 1.5 (0.75–7.78) and a p-value of 0.24. In conclusion, the majority of the participants had knowledge, attitude, and practice of HIV patient care among clinical medical students. The study recommends that medical students should be given health education about patient care so as to increase their knowledge and capacity to look after patients. The study recommends that the government decentralise HIV services to low-level health centres so as to bring services closer to people. The study also recommends that there should be outreach to communities to do voluntary testing and counselling for the population to know the people who could be HIV positive but are not yet tested.

INTRODUCTION

Medical education is one of the professional trainings that aim to turn a layperson into a professional, a doctor in this context. Transformations in theoretical perspectives and teaching strategies are abounding in medical education in order to produce doctors who are not only knowledgeable and skilled but also behave professionally [1]. Globally, HIV-related deaths have fallen, most likely due to the intervention of Highly Active Anti-Retroviral Therapy (HAART) [2-3]. New HIV infections have fallen by about 35% since 2016, with approximately 180 000 newly infected in 2021, compared to approximately 270 000 in 2016 [6]. Approximately 21.7 million people with HIV were accessing antiretroviral therapy by June 2021, as compared to an estimate of 15.8 million in June 2019 and 7.5 million in 2016 [6]. An estimated 46% of people with HIV had access to treatment, and about 77% of HIV-positive pregnant women had access to antiretroviral medication for the prevention of HIV transmission from mother to baby [7]. In 2021, an estimated 36.9 million people were living with HIV (including 1.8 million children), with a global HIV prevalence of 0.8% among adults. Around 25% of these same people do not know that they have the virus [8]. The vast majority of people living with HIV are located in low- and middle-income countries, with an estimated majority living in sub-Saharan Africa [9-11]. Among this group, 19.6 million are living in East and Southern Africa, which saw 800,000 new HIV infections in 2021 [6].

In Uganda, as of 2019, the estimated HIV prevalence among adults (aged 15 to 49) stood at 5.9%. Women are disproportionately affected, with 8.8% of adult women living with HIV compared to 4.5% of men [12]. Other groups particularly affected by HIV in Uganda are sex workers, young girls and adolescent women, men who have sex with men, people who inject drugs, and people from Uganda's transient fishing communities [13]. In 2017, Uganda reached a tipping point whereby the number of new

Consequently the effectiveness of policies programs and resources intended to address the spread of HIV AIDS has been compromised This report aims to fill the knowledge gap by providing the first ever comprehensive scientific assessment and data driven epidemiological synthesis of HIV s spread in MENA It is based on a literature review and analysis of thousands of largely unrecognized publications reports and data sources extracted from scientific literature or collected from sources at the local national and regional levels The resulting collection of data provides a solid foundation on which efforts to stem the spread of HIV AIDS can be based Characterizing the HIV AIDS Epidemic in the Middle East and North Africa will be of particular interest to policy makers researchers development practitioners and specialists in public health and epidemiology

Knowledge, Attitude and Practice Related to HIV/AIDS Prevention Among Secondary School Students in Klang, Malaysia Mahtab Mohammadi,2010 The HIV AIDS has killed more than 25 million people since it was first recognized in 1981 making it one of the most destructive pandemics in recorded history The adolescents generally tend to have highs levels of knowledge about the meaning of HIV transmission However somewhat lower levels of knowledge about effective means of protection lack some critical information and hold a number of misconceptions about the risks associated with casual contact Knowledge about HIV AIDS is clear important young people to preventive actions such as condom use The aim of this study was to determine the level of knowledge attitude and practices related to HIV AIDS prevention among secondary school students in Klang district A cross sectional study design was used The study population was secondary school students in Klang district Data was collected from 9th of February to 28th of March 2009 using a pre tested self administrated Bahasa Malaysia questionnaire Data was analyzed using SPSS version 16 0 Out of the 2273 student 61 7% were male Majority were Malays 37 2% followed by Chinese 35 7% and Indians 26 0% The mean age ranged from 14 to 18 years The overall mean age among the males 15 48 SD 1 14 years was not significantly different from that of the females 15 49 SD 0 04 years $t = 0.26$ df 2271 $p = 0.05$ The main sources of information for HIV AIDS awareness reported by the respondents were the print media 62 3% The overall mean knowledge score of the respondents was 7 01 SD 3 62 and ranged from 0 to 15 points One hundred and eighteen students 5 2% obtained 0 zero marks in knowledge questions score and 88 8% of students had less than 75% of full marks in knowledge question score The result of this study revealed that although the majority 77 7% of students knew that AIDS is fatal disease almost 52% were not aware that there is no cure for AIDS and only 23 7% knew that there is no vaccine that can stop people from getting HIV More than half of the participants believed that HIV transmission was possible through casual contact with HIV positive persons such as sharing food 68 6% sharing a glass of water 71 1% and from mosquito bites 60 4% Abstaining from sexual intercourse having one uninfected faithful sex partner and use of condoms as an HIV prevention measure was not well understood among the participants as indicated by incorrect response rate of 55 7% 63 5% and respectively Mean attitude score toward HIV AIDS was 25 32 SD 3 60 and ranged from 8 to 45 points Mean practice score regarding HIV AIDS was 4 53 SD 1 063 and ranged from 0 to 6 points and mean sexual behavior score was 3.73 SD 0.78 and ranged from 0 to 6 points. The results also showed that knowledge of respondents was significantly associated with age $F(33, 41) p = 0.001$ and academic grade $F(31, 47) p = 0.001$. Attitude related to HIV/AIDS was significantly associated with age $F(10, 52) p = 0.001$, mother's education $F(2, 87) p = 0.035$ and academic grade $F(21, 03) p = 0.002$. The practice of respondents related to HIV/AIDS was significantly associated with gender $F(153, 95) p = 0.001$, age $F(9, 32) p = 0.001$, religion $F(2, 82) p = 0.024$, family income $F(2, 88) p = 0.035$ and academic grade $F(4, 56) p = 0.001$. In conclusion, the result of study showed that the level of knowledge related to HIV/AIDS among secondary school students in Klang is not satisfactory. There is considerable misconception regarding transmission and prevention of HIV/AIDS. The respondents seem to have unfavorable attitude on the prevention of HIV/AIDS. Among 6.1% of student that admitted to have ever had sexual intercourse, only 43.1% of them reported that they or their partners used condom at last sexual intercourse. It is recommended that peer education intervention on improvement of knowledge, attitudes and behavior of secondary school children related to HIV prevention be implemented.

Aids Awareness Through Community Participation Meenu Sharma, 2006. AIDS is the most devastating epidemic mankind has ever faced. The book delves into the lives of some such communities with a modest attempt to create AIDS awareness amongst them. The book makes a concerted effort to understand various issues related to AIDS. HIV/Aids in the Western Balkans, 2005-01-01. In recent years, Europe and Central Asia has experienced the world's fastest growing HIV/AIDS epidemic. Yet in the Western Balkan countries, the HIV prevalence rate is under 0.1 percent, which ranks among the lowest. This may be due to a low level of infection among the population or partly due to inadequate surveillance systems. All major contributing factors for the breakout of an HIV/AIDS epidemic are present in the Western Balkans. HIV/AIDS disproportionately affects youth; 80 percent of HIV infected people are 30 years old or younger. Most of the Western Balkan countries have very young populations.

The Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region is China's largest province, shares borders with Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Russia, and Mongolia, and possesses a variety of natural resources including oil. The tensions between ethnic Muslim Uyghurs and the growing number of Han Chinese in Xinjiang have recently increased, occasionally breaking out into violence. At the same time, as being a potential trouble spot for China, the province is of increasing strategic significance as China's gateway to Central Asia, whose natural resources are of increasing importance to China. This book focuses in particular on what life is like in Xinjiang for the diverse population that lives there. It offers important insights into the social, economic, and political terrains of Xinjiang, concentrating especially on how current trends in Xinjiang are likely to develop in the future. In doing so, it provides a broader understanding of the region and its peoples.
