Malawi S Fourth Integrated Household Survey 2016 2017:

The Oxford Handbook of the Malawi Economy Hopestone Chavula, Thomas Chataghalala Munthali, Harold P. E. Ngalawa, Boniface Dulani, 2024-08-28 The Oxford Handbook of the Malawi Economy is an essential reference material with new research contributions and insights across the different areas of economic development to shape the country's future growth and development trajectory. The volume is the first publication that tries to assess the performance of the Malawi economy since independence by examining how the underpinning political and economic history and the associated policies and strategies have affected the country's long-term socio-economic development. It captures a broad range of opinions, approaches, and conclusions which serve to underline both the complexity of the issues and challenges facing Malawi and the immense difficulties in tackling them. Common themes emerge as many authors agree that the country needs to learn from its past experiences in terms of policy design and implementation and the need to implement dynamic policies that could spur productive and sustained growth and development by tackling challenges associated with the continuously evolving global economic environment.

Breaking the Vicious Circles of Informal Employment and Low-Paying Work OECD, 2024-01-15 This report adds two perspectives on informality. It disassembles the mechanics of the deleterious links between informal employment, low-paying work, and low skills. It shows that informal employment is highly persistent and that the vulnerability of informal workers is passed on to their children in the absence of adequate education skills and social protection policy.

African food systems transformation and the post-Malabo agenda Ulimwengu, John M., Kwofie, Ebenezer M., Collins, Julia, 2023-12-04 This year marks 20 years of implementing the Comprehensive Africa Agriculture Development Programme (CAADP) which was broadened under the 2014 Malabo Declaration on Accelerated Agricultural Growth and Transformation for Shared Prosperity and Improved Livelihoods. The 2023 Annual Trends and Outlook Report generates evidence on the implementation of the CAADP Malabo agenda and thus contributes to the design of the post-Malabo phase of CAADP implementation. The report assesses the current state of Africa's food systems, explores strategic issues related to food systems transformation, and reflects on necessary methodologies and approaches to provide a better understanding of key challenges and necessary actions to accelerate transformation.

Digital Inequalities in the Global South Massimo Ragnedda, Anna Gladkova, 2020-06-29 This book discusses how digital inequalities today may lead to other types of inequalities in the Global South. Contributions to this collection move past discussing an access problem, a binary division between haves and have-nots, to analyse complex inequalities in the internet use, benefits, and opportunities of people in the Global South region. Using specific case studies, this book underlines how communities in the Global South are now attempting to participate in the information age despite high costs, a lack of infrastructure, and more barriers to entry. Contributions discuss the recent changes in the Global South. These changes include greater technological availability, the spread of digital literacy programs and computer courses, and the overall growth in engagement of people from different backgrounds ethnicities and languages in digital environments This book outlines and evaluates the role of state and public institutions in facilitating these changes and consequently bridging the digital divide

Rural poverty analysis Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2021-10-26 Reducing rural poverty is a key objective of FAO To achieve this goal the Organization must reach the poor and the extremely poor in rural areas analysing their needs and aspirations and providing effective guidance for the design of policies and investments that foster inclusive and sustainable development This guide was developed to strengthen the Organization's work on rural poverty reduction and inclusivity over the coming years It provides key information to measure poverty characterize rural populations and identify their constraints to target them more accurately The guide includes five chapters Chapter 1 explains the structure content and use of the guide as well as its intended users and objectives Chapter 2 discusses how poverty is measured focusing on the different indicators that can be used depending on the context specific circumstances data availability and policy objectives Chapter 3 provides guidance on how to build a poverty profile and produce poverty maps to understand who the poor are and where they are located Chapter 4 focuses on the targeting process on various targeting techniques and on how to choose one over another to ensure that programmes and projects effectively combat poverty particularly in rural areas Finally Chapter 5 sets the next steps for the development of further analytical guides The various chapters provide an overview of both widely used and emerging techniques in poverty analysis focusing on quantitative methods and giving constant attention to FAO's areas of work and the challenges posed by operating in rural areas

Disentangling food security from subsistence agriculture in Malawi Benson, Todd, 2021-05-24 Many rural Malawian households cannot reliably obtain enough food to meet their needs even though most have access to arable land for food production This book calls for three critical changes to promote sustainable food security in Malawi 1 government support for a significantly more diversified and commercially oriented agriculture sector 2 increased agricultural productivity of rural farmers and 3 strengthened food markets

Weather variability and extreme shocks in Africa: Are female or male farmers more affected? Nico, Gianluigi, Azzarri, Carlo, 2022-04-12 Agriculture in Africa has been traditionally seen as an important employment provider supporting agriculture based livelihoods of the vast majority of the African population James 2014 World Bank 2011 and absorbing the largest share of the employed population Data suggest that almost 224 million people aged 15 and above are directly engaged in agriculture in Africa ILO 2021 corresponding to nearly half of the total employed population in the continent and absorbing of global agricultural employment

The State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World 2019 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, International Fund for Agricultural Development , World Food Programme, World Health Organization, United Nations Children's Fund, 2019-07-15 This year's report presents evidence that the absolute number of people who suffer from hunger continues to slowly increase The report also highlights that food insecurity is more than just hunger For the first time the report provides evidence that many people in the world even if not hungry experience moderate food insecurity as they face uncertainties about their ability to obtain food and are forced to compromise on the quality and or quantity of the food they consume This phenomenon is observed globally not only in low and middle income countries but also in high income countries The report also shows that the world is not on track to meet global nutrition targets including those on low birthweight and on reducing stunting among children under five years Moreover overweight and obesity continue to increase in all regions particularly among school age children and adults The report stresses that no region is exempt from the epidemic of overweight and obesity underscoring the necessity of multifaceted multisectoral approaches to halt and reverse these worrying trends In light of the fragile state of the world economy the report presents new evidence confirming that hunger has been on the rise for many countries where the economy has slowed down or contracted Unpacking the links between economic slowdowns and downturns and food insecurity and malnutrition the report contends that the effects of the former on the latter can only be offset by addressing the root causes of hunger and malnutrition poverty inequality and marginalization Socio-Ecological Systems and Decoloniality Deepa Pullanikkatil, Kerry Hughes, 2023-01-01 This contributed volume provides case studies from around the world that feature a convergence of indigenous and western knowledge in an attempt to understand complex socio ecological systems The book provides an understanding of socio ecological systems in an ethical space using a Decoloniality approach i e untangling the production of knowledge from a primarily Eurocentric episteme The work presented here integrates and merges indigenous knowledge with western science thereby building on the strengths of each in service of understanding these systems The editors of this volume approach indigenous communities and scientists as equal knowledge holders and in doing so contributes towards improved understanding of socio ecological systems and interactions in cross cultural contexts This volume will be of interest to scientists instructors students and policy makers across disciplines such as environmental sciences social sciences interdisciplinary studies cultural studies ethnobotany anthropology and plant genetic resources

Rural underemployment and urbanization: Insights from a nine year household panel survey from Malawi Van Capellen, Hanne, De Weerdt, Joachim, 2023-09-25 Rural labor markets in Africa are frequently characterized by underemployment with farmers unable to fully deploy throughout the year one of their most important assets their labor Using a nine year panel data set on 1 407 working age adults from rural Malawi we document changes in rural underemployment over this period and how they are associated with urbanization Nearby urban growth results in increased hours worked in casual labor ganyu and in non agricultural sectors at the expense of work on the household farm Improved urban access is also associated with a small increase in wage labor and at the intensive margin with hours supplied in household enterprises We draw lessons from these results for policies investments and interventions to leverage urban growth for rural development Dynamics in agricultural extension services provision in Malawi: Insights from two rounds of household and community panel surveys Ragasa, Catherine, Comstock, Andrew, 2019-08-01 The Government of Malawi is in the process of developing its National Agricultural Extension Strategy Two rounds of national household and community surveys 2016 2018 coupled with in depth interviews and focus group discussions were implemented to provide research evidence supporting the Strategy's development. This paper summarizes emerging trends from these surveys and monitors progress in extension services provision, players and actors in extension services provision and evidence on the coverage and effectiveness of extension approaches. Positive trends include 1) improvements in the percentage of men and women farmers accessing extension services, 2) consistently high ratings in the perceived quality of extension services, 3) more diversity in extension messages including more information regarding market access and nutrition, 4) greater use of cost effective tools such as radio programming and community or group meetings as sources of agricultural information and 5) greater crop diversification although diversification outside of agriculture remains low. Four areas remain weak and need further improvements: First, information sharing among farmers, friends and neighbors is frequent and the coverage of those officially trained lead farmers, those trained specifically to promote technologies to other farmers, remains low with only 7 percent of households reporting getting relevant advice from them. Second, while there are more model villages and village agricultural committees present, we see decreasing participation and ratings for these. Third, we observe greater awareness of promoted technologies including conservation agriculture, pit planting and sustainable land practices but adoption remains very low. Fourth, we observe greater crop diversification but farm productivity and commercialization remain low. Although we have investigated many dimensions and factors in this paper, there remain challenges and puzzles that could be further addressed in future research. These include constraints on the adoption of minimal expensive inputs and low cost management practices, constraints on the role of intensive training and labor and understanding the drivers and factors affecting commercialization and diversification.

Understanding the demand for “protective foods” in East Africa: An economic analysis with policy recommendations Headey, Derek D., Ecker, Olivier, Comstock, Andrew R., Ruel, Marie T., 2021-07-29. Suboptimal diets are a major risk factor for avoidable death and disease in low and middle income countries. Evidence shows that some foods or food components e.g. processed red meat, saturated fat, salt, sugar significantly elevate the risk of noncommunicable diseases and mortality while others protect health e.g. vegetables, fruits, pulses, nuts, seeds, fish, whole grains referred to in this document as protective foods. We used household surveys to compare dietary patterns in Ethiopia, Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda to the EAT-Lancet healthy reference diet and to quantify and explain consumption gaps for nutritious foods. Compared to the EAT-Lancet healthy reference diet, consumption gaps for pulses and nuts, seeds, vegetables and fruits are large for both poor and rich consumers in rural and urban areas in the four countries studied while consumption gaps for meat, fish and eggs and dairy foods are much larger for lower income groups. Food expenditures of most households in these four countries are far too low to allow consumption of the healthy reference diet. Animal source foods and vegetables are the largest cost components of food expenditures although quantities consumed of both food groups are much lower than the EAT-Lancet healthy reference diet. Income elasticities of demand for pulses and nuts, seeds and vegetables are often low or moderate suggesting weak consumer preference for these foods while income elasticities for fruits and animal source foods are relatively high Income growth alone will not solve dietary problems in East Africa in addition to supply side interventions to improve affordability special interventions are required to increase consumer demand for underappreciated protective nutritious foods such as pulses and nuts seeds and vegetables Routledge Handbook of Energy Economics Uğur

Soytaş,Ramazan Sarı,2019-09-23 Energy consumption and production have major influences on the economy environment and society but in return they are also influenced by how the economy is structured how the social institutions work and how the society deals with environmental degradation The need for integrated assessment of the relationship between energy economy environment and society is clear and this handbook offers an in depth review of all four pillars of the energy economy environment society nexus Bringing together contributions from all over the world this handbook includes sections devoted to each of the four pillars Moreover as the financialization of commodity markets has made risk analysis more complicated and intriguing the sections also cover energy commodity markets and their links to other financial and non financial markets In addition econometric modeling and the forecasting of energy needs as well as energy prices and volatilities are also explored Each part emphasizes the multidisciplinary nature of the energy economics field and from this perspective chapters offer a review of models and methods used in the literature The Routledge Handbook of Energy Economics will be of great interest to all those studying and researching in the area of energy economics It offers guideline suggestions for policy makers as well as for future research Employment options and challenges for rural households in

Malawi: An agriculture and rural employment analysis of the fifth Malawi Integrated Household Survey, 2019/10 Benson, Todd,De Weerd, Joachim,2023-03-09 Malawi has suffered from weak economic growth since its independence in 1964 Over 50 percent of the population live below the poverty line unable to produce enough or to otherwise obtain sufficient income to meet all of their basic needs Poverty is concentrated in rural areas Smallholder agriculture dominates employment in rural Malawi However with continuing population growth the average landholding size for smallholder farming households is declining resulting in many being unable to produce sufficient food to meet their own needs To escape poverty rural households increasingly must diversify their sources of income but many lack the human and financial capital to do so In this report a detailed examination is provided of the agricultural production non farm employment patterns and overall incomes obtained by farming households across Malawi using data from the fifth Malawi Integrated Household Survey IHS5 conducted in 2019/20 The analysis demonstrates that most poor farming households will never be able to escape poverty through their farming alone even with substantially higher crop productivity Rainfed cropping remains the primary form of agricultural production for farming households in Malawi While increasing numbers are engaging in irrigated farming during the dry season the returns from such farming are inconsistent and low More importantly off farm income sources particularly temporary ganyu wage employment are now critical to the livelihoods of most rural households particularly those with small cropland holdings The common assumption that agriculture is at the center of the livelihoods of rural households across Malawi no longer holds Of equal importance is their ability to obtain sufficiently remunerative off farm employment In developing strategies for rural economic and human development in Malawi accelerating agricultural production growth particularly through increased productivity and increasing the returns to farming are necessary but incomplete solutions Equal attention must now be paid to how workers in farming households can also qualify for and obtain good off farm jobs Without increases in such employment opportunities the economies of most rural communities across Malawi are likely to stagnate and poverty will deepen among households living in them

Understanding the production of “protective” foods in East Africa: A cross-country analysis of drivers and policy options Haile, Beliyu, You, Liangzhi, Headey, Derek D., Ru, Yating, Mahrt, Kristi, 2021-07-29 Supply chains for nutritious protective foods in Africa south of the Sahara are often poorly developed especially for perishable crops that are vulnerable to wastage We used LSMS ISA surveys and geographic information system GIS data to explore which factors predict production patterns of four protective food crops pulses nuts and seeds vegetables and fruits relative to cereals and starchy roots and tubers grouped under staples in Ethiopia Malawi Tanzania and Uganda with a focus on potential interventions to improve production trade and consumption of these foods Plot level irrigation adoption is the strongest predictor of fruit and vegetable production along with precipitation suggesting that water availability is a major precondition for producing these protective foods In contrast pulses and nuts and seeds can be grown in drier and warmer conditions Better market access is also associated with higher production of fruits and vegetables but the association is weaker than that of water access Investing in and expanding irrigation especially small scale irrigation has strong potential to yield high returns in East Africa especially for poor households that cannot afford to invest in capital intensive irrigation technologies Irrigation investments may need to be complemented by investments in roads rural electrification and cold storage chains to promote efficiency of postharvest supply chains and reduce marketing costs
