CASE Oracle Corporation is a database software company that specializes in developing and marketing enterprise software products. The company was co-founded in 1977 by Larry Ellison, a Chicagoan with little formal training in databases but some practical experience working with the nonrelational databases of the period.

Through organic growth and a number of high-profile acquisitions, Oracle enlarged its share of the software market. In 2016 Oracle generated $37 billion in revenue, about $2 billion of that from SaaS and PaaS (Platform as a service), and $29 billion from cloud and software sales. Oracle ranks second on the list of largest software companies in the world, after Microsoft. It has a market capitalization of $198 billion in December 2017, placing it in the top 20 firms in the United States, just behind Coca Cola and JPMorgan Chase bank.
