Dibble,Paul Mellars,2003-01-14 Papers originally presented at a symposium on the Middle Paleolithic of Europe and the Near East organized as part of the annual meeting of the Society for American Archaeology in the spring of 1989 Paleolithic archaeology has entered a period in which new interpretations based on new finds and revised ideas concerning previously known material are competing with traditional interpretations There is an urgent need for continued dialogue among Paleolithic scholars exemplified by these papers Symposium Series IV University Museum Monograph 78 The Early Upper Paleolithic Beyond Western Europe P. Middle Stone Age This is a time period when Homo sapiens last shared the world with other species and during which patterns of behavior characteristic of modern humans developed and coalesced Contributions to this volume query and challenge some current notions about the tempo and mode of cultural evolution and about the processes that underlie the emergence of modern behavior The papers focus on several fundamental questions Do typical elements of modern human behavior appear suddenly or are there earlier archaeological precursors of them Are the archaeological records of the Middle Paleolithic and Middle Stone Age unchanging and monotonous or are there detectable evolutionary trends within these periods Coming to diverse conclusions the papers in this volume open up new avenues to thinking about this crucial interval in human evolutionary history
