Gobewole, 2018-04-03 Africa is a continent of contrasts with some of the lowest literacy rates and nations with the highest number of people living in poverty Yet beginning a few hundred years ago this same continent was rich in resources coveted by more advanced nations today s wealthy Western and European countries African minerals raw materials and even humans were traded for cash or services that benefited African leaders families or tribes but this wealth was not distributed across the general population The combination of resource extraction neoliberal policies and patrimonial regimes is the foundation for the abject poverty and poor literacy that exists in many African nations today This book uses data provided by highly regarded international organizations such as the Index of Economic Freedom The Global Innovation Index The Intelligence Unit Democracy Index and Corruption Perception Index This research supports the theory that Africa s perpetual poverty is a result of the extractive transfer of natural resources the implementation of neoliberal trade policies and the ongoing support of bad governance and poor leadership Business and Society Danica Purg, Alenka Braček Lalić, Jennifer A.

Looney, 2018-10-03 International trade has for decades been central to economic growth and improved standards of living for nations and regions worldwide For most of the advanced countries trade has raised standards of living while for most emerging economies growth did not begin until their integration into the global economy The economic explanation is simple international trade facilitates specialization increased efficiency and improved productivity to an extent impossible in closed economies However recent years have seen a significant slowdown in global trade and the global system has increasingly come under attack from politicians on the right and on the left The benefits of open markets the continuation of international co operation and the usefulness of multilateral institutions such as the World Trade Organization WTO the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank have all been called into question While globalization has had a broadly positive effect on overall global welfare it has also been perceived by the public as damaging communities and social classes in the industrialized world spawning for example Brexit and the US exit from the Trans Pacific Partnership The purpose of this volume is to examine international and regional preferential trade agreements PTAs which offer like minded countries a possible means to continue receiving the benefits of economic liberalization and expanded trade What are the strengths and weaknesses of such agreements and how can they sustain growth and prosperity for their members in an ever challenging global economic environment The Handbook is divided into two parts The first Global Themes offers analysis of issues including the WTO trade agreements and economic development intellectual property rights security and environmental issues and PTAs and developing countries The second part examines regional and country specific agreements and issues including NAFTA CARICOM CETA the Pacific Alliance the European Union EFTA ECOWAS SADC TTIP RCEP and the TPP now the CPTPP as well as the policies of countries such as Japan and Australia
