Age of Context Robert Scoble, Shel Israel, 2014 In 2006 co authors Robert Scoble and Shel Israel wrote Naked Conversations a book that persuaded businesses to embrace what we now call social media Six years later they have teamed up again to report that social media is but one of five converging forces that promise to change virtually every aspect of our lives You know these other forces already mobile data sensors and location based technology Combined with social media they form a new generation of personalized technology that knows us better than our closest friends Armed with that knowledge our personal devices can anticipate what we ll need next and serve us better than a butler or an executive assistant The resulting convergent superforce is so powerful that it is ushering in a era the authors call the Age of Context In this new era our devices know when to wake us up early because it snowed last night they contact the people we are supposed to meet with to warn them we re running late They even find content worth watching on television They also promise to cure cancer and make it harder for terrorists to do their damage Astoundingly in the coming age you may only receive ads you want to see Scoble and Israel have spent more than a year researching this book They report what they have learned from interviewing more than a hundred pioneers of the new technology and by examining hundreds of contextual products What does it all mean How will it change society in the future The authors are unabashed tech enthusiasts but as they write an elephant sits in the living room of our book and it is called privacy We are entering a time when our technology serves us best because it watches us collecting data on what we do who we speak with what we look at There is no doubt about it Big Data is watching you The time to lament the loss of privacy is over The authors argue that the time is right to demand options that enable people to reclaim some portions of that privacy Age of Context Robert Scoble, Shel Israel, 2013-09-23 social and economic division and to force people to engage in constant cycles of upgrades and boosts merely to keep up. Individuals who boost their traits beyond a certain threshold may acquire such extreme capabilities that they will no longer be recognized as unambiguously human. In this important and timely book prize winning historian Michael Bess provides a clear nontechnical overview of cutting edge biotechnology and paints a vivid portrait of a near future society in which bioenhancement has become a part of everyday life. He surveys the ethical questions raised by the enhancement enterprise and explores the space for human agency in dealing with the challenges that these technologies will present. Headed your way over the coming decades new biotechnologies that can powerfully alter your body and mind. Cognitive enhancement through chemical or bioelectronic means the rough equivalent of doubling or tripling IQ scores. Epigenetic tools for altering some of your genetically influenced traits at any point in your lifetime: body shape, athletic ability, intelligence, personality. Bioelectronic devices for modulating your own brain processes including your pleasure centers, a potentially non-stop high. Direct control of machines by thought and perhaps direct communication with other people, brain to brain, a new dimension of sharing and intimacy. But some of the potential consequences are also alarming. A growing rift between the biologically enhanced and those who can't afford such modifications. A constant cycle of upgrades and boosts as the bar of normal rises ever higher. Humans 95, Humans XP, Humans 8. The fragmentation of humankind into rival bioenhancement clusters. A gradually blurring boundary between person and product. Extreme forms of self modification with some individuals no longer recognized as unambiguously human.
