Abstract

The purpose of this article is to discuss the process of teaching graduate students in school psychology to write psychological reports that teachers and parents find readable and that guide intervention. The consensus from studies across four decades of research is that effective psychological reports connect to the client's context; have clear links between the referral questions and the answers to these questions; have integrated interpretations; address client strengths and problem areas; have specific, concrete, and feasible recommendations; and are adapted to the language and literacy level of the reader. The Hayes and Flower model of the writing process is the conceptual framework used to describe the process of teaching report writing. This involves a constructivist approach to supervision and the use of specific strategies that may be effective in teaching graduate students to formulate the case, adapt their writing to the language and literacy level of the reader, set goals, and generate and organize the text.

Résumé

Cet article discute le procès d'enseigner aux étudiants en psychologie scolaire la rédaction des rapports psychologiques qui sont à la fois compréhensibles pour parents et enseignants et qui servent à diriger l'intervention. L'accord général qui parvient de quatre décennies de recherche suggère qu'afin d'être efficaces, les rapports psychologiques doivent démontrer des liens clairs entre les questions qui sont posées et les réponses à ces questions, offrir des interprétations intégrées, s'adresser aux qualités des clients ainsi qu'aux difficultés, proposer des recommandations spécifiques, concrètes, et atteignables, et être sensibles au niveau littéraire du lecteur. Ici, le modèle de la production écrite de Hayes et Flower était le cadre conceptuel qui a

Psychological Report Writing Theory And Practice:

Psychological Report Writing Joseph William Hollis, Patsy A. Donn, 1979 Clinician's Guide To Neuropsychological Assessment Rodney D. Vanderploeg, 2014-04-04 Neuropsychological assessment is a difficult and complicated process. Often experienced clinicians as well as trainees and students gloss over fundamental problems or fail to consider potential sources of error. Since formal test data on the surface appear unambiguous and objective, they may fall into the habit of overemphasizing tests and their scores and underemphasizing all the factors that affect the validity, reliability, and interpretability of test data. But interpretation is far from straightforward and a pragmatic application of assessment results requires attention to a multitude of issues. This long-awaited, updated and greatly expanded second edition of the Clinician's Guide to Neuropsychological Assessment like the first focuses on the clinical practice of neuropsychology. Orienting readers to the entire multitude of issues, it guides them step by step through evaluation and helps them avoid common misconceptions, mistakes, and methodological pitfalls. It is divided into three sections: fundamental elements of the assessment process, special issues, settings and populations, and new approaches and methodologies. The authors, all of whom are actively engaged in the clinical practice of neuropsychological assessment as well as in teaching and research, do an outstanding job of integrating the academic and the practical. The Clinician's Guide to Neuropsychological Assessment Second Edition will be welcomed as a text for graduate courses but also as an invaluable hands-on handbook for interns, postdoctoral fellows, and experienced neuropsychologists alike. No other book offers its combination of breadth across batteries and approaches, depth, and practicality. Writing and Reading Mental Health Records J. Frederick Reynolds, David C. Mair, Pamela C. Fischer, 2013-12-02 This revised and updated second edition is a rhetorical analysis of written communication in the mental health community. As such, it contributes to the growing body of research being done in rhetoric and composition studies on the nature of writing and reading in highly specialized professional discourse communities. Many compelling questions answered in this volume include: What ideological biases are reflected in the language the nurse/rhetorician uses to talk to and talk about the patient? How does language figure into the process of constructing meaning in this context? What social interactions with the patient, with other nurses, with physicians influence the nurse's attempt to construct meaning in this context? How do the readers of assessment construct their own meanings of the assessment? Based on an ongoing collaboration between composition studies specialists and mental health practitioners, this book presents research of value not only to writing scholars and teachers but also to professional clinicians, their teachers, and those who read mental health records in order to make critically important decisions. It can also be valuable as a model for other scholars to follow when conducting similar long-range studies of other writing-intensive professions. The Assessment of Child and Adolescent Personality Howard M. assessment Organized for easy reference the book is divided into four parts Part I summarizes basic theories issues and concepts setting forth a framework for assessment as a hypothesis generating problem solving process Part II describes and evaluates a wide range of relevant approaches tests and techniques marshaling the available data and reviewing administration procedures scoring and interpretation In Part III the process by which personality assessment is translated into effective intervention strategies and programs for children is examined in depth A summary of major perspectives and recommended practices is presented in Part IV which also considers future needs and directions for the field
