

"A literary battle cry for the creation of a new genre, one that doesn't draw distinctions between fiction and nonfiction, originality and plagiarism, memoir and fabrication, scripted and unscripted. . . . David Shields [is] brilliant, thoughtful, and yes, original."

—Cathy Alter, The Atlantic

"Reality Hunger urgently and succinctly addresses matters that have been in the air, have relentlessly gathered momentum, and have just been waiting for someone to link them together. . . . [It] heralds what will be the dominant modes in years and decades to come."

—Luc Sante, The New York Times Book Review

"David Shields draws on a wide range of references, taking historical reports, personal essays, discussions of new media, and literary conventions (some verbatim, others suggested) to construct a polemic polemic that is also an account . . . of his own mental life. . . . Most importantly, Shields knows how to provoke argument without needing to backfill opposition. Rather, the tug-of-war between reader and writer over the nature of reality that infuses the text is itself the aesthetic experience he is after."

—Tim Parks, The New York Review of Books

"Good manifestos propagate their seed, cling to it, and find it is also conversational, so even just spreading the manifestos of information or rebuttal. After the opening call to action, a variety of minds turn their attention to the same problem. It's the humanist ideal of a dialogue, even if it takes a while to come and survive by itself. That's why David Shields's Reality Hunger has just the immodest ambition and exhorter's zeal to bring about this happy scenario."

—Sam Sacks, The Wall Street Journal

Reality Hunger A Manifesto David Shields:

Reality Hunger David Shields, 2010-02-23 A landmark book brilliant thoughtful The Atlantic and raw and gorgeous LA Times that fast forwards the discussion of the central artistic issues of our time from the bestselling author of The Thing About Life Is That One Day You'll Be Dead Who owns ideas How clear is the distinction between fiction and nonfiction Has the velocity of digital culture rendered traditional modes obsolete Exploring these and related questions Shields orchestrates a chorus of voices past and present to reframe debates about the veracity of memoir and the relevance of the novel He argues that our culture is obsessed with reality precisely because we experience hardly any and urgently calls for new forms that embody and convey the fractured nature of contemporary experience

Reality Hunger David Shields, 2011-04-11 Was ist Realität was ist Wirklichkeit was ist echt und authentisch in welchen Formen stellen wir unser Leben in der Kunst dar Horaz Friedrich Nietzsche Samuel Beckett Thomas Pynchon Nicholson Baker Jean Luc Godard Lars von Trier und viele andere bekannte Namen der Literatur und Kulturgeschichte treffen auf die Google und Facebook Generation sie bilden den aktuellen Hintergrund für eine grundlegend neue Kultur des Samplings der kreativen Montage von Bildern und der freien Benutzung aller Texte Urheberrechte sind genauso wie die Forderung nach einer naturalistischen Erzählung und nach einer linearen Handlung Relikte aus der alten Welt Shields plädiert in seinem Manifest für die Freiheit von Grenzen seien es die zwischen Fakt und Fiktion bzw zwischen Reportage und Erfindung oder die zwischen Erzählung und Essay Mit seinem ebenso provozierenden wie höchst informativen Werk das selbst zu einem großen Teil aus Zitaten Aphorismen und Anekdoten anderer Autoren besteht regt Shields dazu an traditionelle Ansichten über Originalität Authentizität und Kreativität zu bedenken Man wird sein Buch lieben oder hassen Ohne Zweifel gelingt es ihm jedoch spielend allen Seiten in der kontroversen Debatte auf höchst unterhaltsame Art und Weise Argumente für ihre Diskussion zu liefern Höchst spannend zu lesen auch wenn man mit vielem nicht einverstanden ist Zadie Smith The Guardian Ultrahip The Observer

The Very Last Interview David Shields, 2022-04-12 In the spirit of his highly acclaimed and influential book Reality Hunger David Shields has composed a mordantly funny relentlessly self questioning self portrait based on questions that interviewers have asked him over forty years David Shields decided to gather every interview he's ever given going back nearly forty years If it was on the radio or TV or a podcast he transcribed it He wasn't sure what he was looking for but he knew he wasn't interested in any of his own answers The questions interested him approximately 2 700 which he condensed and collated to form twenty two chapters focused on such subjects as Process Childhood Failure Capitalism Suicide and Comedy Then according to Shields the real work began rewriting and editing and remixing the questions and finding a through line The result is a lacerating self demolition in which the author in this case a late middle aged white man is strangely thrillingly absent As Chuck Klosterman says The Very Last Interview is David Shields doing what he has done dazzlingly for the past twenty five years interrogating his own intellectual experience by changing the meaning of what seems both obviously straightforward and obviously wrong

Shields's new book is a sequel of sorts to his seminal Reality Hunger: A Manifesto which Literary Hub recently named one of the most important books of the last decade. According to Kenneth Goldsmith, "Just when you think Shields couldn't rethink and reinvent literature any further, he does it again." The Very Last Interview confirms Shields as the most dangerously important American writer since Burroughs. The Age of Distraction Robert Hassan, 2011-11-30. Connections between time, technology, and the processes of reading and writing make clear the links between experiences of what appear to be quite different phenomena. Reading and writing have functioned together in a particular way to build the world as we have known it for three thousand years. These interacting processes have now been transformed at their core and are building a different world, one where certainties of the previous era are disappearing and being displaced by what the author sees as a chronic and pervasive mode of cognitive distraction. Robert Hassan offers a perspective permeated by a sense of history beginning with the invention of writing and the development of the skill of reading. Together with technological developments, these provide a unique view of the trajectory of modernity into late modernity and illustrate how the arc of progress has transformed. New modes of time, technology, and reading and writing are helping create a faster world where we know less about more and forget what we know evermore quickly. What is the time of a thought? Is it possible to measure thinking? Can we consider knowledge or information or reading and writing as having temporal rhythms? These are questions Hassan tries to answer. So unfamiliar are we to thinking in such terms that they sound impossible. To a significant degree, time, thinking, and many forms of knowledge are the fruits of subjective experience. We connect experiences at superficial levels where people have different experiences that may be objectively the same but our interpretations will always diverge in respect of the reality we confront. This intersection of philosophy and communication takes the reader into new realms of analysis.

The Thing About Life Is That One Day You'll Be Dead David Shields, 2009-02-10. NATIONAL BESTSELLER. Weaving together personal anecdote, biological fact, philosophical doubt, cultural criticism, and the wisdom of an eclectic range of writers and thinkers, a book that expertly renders both a hilarious family portrait and a truly resonant meditation on mortality. Shields is a sharp-eyed, self-deprecating at times hilarious writer. The Wall Street Journal: Mesmerized and somewhat unnerved by his 97-year-old father's vitality and optimism, David Shields undertakes an original investigation of our flesh and blood existence, our mortal being. The Thing About Life provokes us to contemplate the brevity and radiance of our own sojourn on earth and challenges us to rearrange our thinking in crucial and unexpected ways. Baudrillard and Theology James Walters, 2012-06-21. Jean Baudrillard was one of the foremost intellectual figures of the late twentieth century, and his work is currently reaching a new prominence in the English-speaking world. Known as the high priest of postmodernity, Baudrillard never directly addressed theological concerns. However, his provocative analysis of the changing nature of reality, subjectivity, and agency is of increasing importance to contemporary theology. Furthermore, his mode of cultural analysis, which he himself describes as mystical, provides fruitful possibilities for theological reasoning in the post-idealist world he describes James Walters provides the context of Baudrillard's writing and identifies key influences. He then sets out his core ideas drawing in theological responses and relating them to theological concerns. Finally, he highlights some areas of his work of particular theological interest.

Heroes David Shields, 2004-01-01 This is as good a novel as well written a novel centering on Dr Naismith's game as any I've read. Ira Berkow from the foreword: Albert Biederman pushing forty is a sportswriter in River City, Iowa, where college basketball carries the town through the cold winter months. The River State University team has been newly energized by a junior college transfer who is from Chicago's South Side. Belvyn Menkus is a blond Afroed point guard who takes the game to a higher level. The first player Al says to stir my imagination in eighteen years of covering River State basketball. Researching Menkus's background, Al discovers forged transcripts and recruiting violations. Breaking the story could land him a job on a big city paper, but what would that cost the player, the town, and Al's own sense of the justice of the game.

Collage in Twenty-First-Century Literature in English Wojciech Drag, 2019-11-12 Collage in Twenty-First-Century Literature in English: Art of Crisis considers the phenomenon of the continued relevance of collage, a form established over a hundred years ago, to contemporary literature. It argues that collage is a perfect artistic vehicle to represent the crisis-ridden reality of the twenty-first century. Being a mixture of fragmentary incompatible voices, collage embodies the chaos of the media-dominated world. Examining the artistic, sociopolitical, and personal crises addressed in contemporary collage literature, the book argues that the 21st Century has brought a revival of collage-like novels and essays.

How Literature Saved My Life David Shields, 2013-11-05 Blending confessional criticism and cultural autobiography, David Shields explores the power of literature to make life survivable, maybe even endurable. Evoking his deeply divided personality, his character flaws, his woes, his serious despair, he wants literature to assuage human loneliness, but nothing can assuage human loneliness. Literature doesn't lie about this, which is what makes it essential. This is a captivating thought-provoking, utterly original book about the essential acts of reading and writing.

Bending Genre Margot Singer, Nicole Walker, 2022-12-15 Ever since the term creative nonfiction first came into widespread use, memoirists and journalists, essayists and fiction writers have faced off over where the border between fact and fiction lies. An early and influential book on questions of form in creative nonfiction, Bending Genre asks not where the boundaries between the genres should be drawn, but what happens when you push the line. The expanded second edition doubles the first edition with 23 new essays that broaden the exploration of hybridity, structure, unconventionality, and resistance in creative nonfiction, pushing the conversation forward in diverse and exciting ways. Written for writers and students of creative writing, this collection brings together perspectives from leading writers of creative nonfiction, including Michael Martone, Brenda Miller, Ander Monson, David Shields, Kazim Ali, and in the new edition, Catina Bacote, Ira Sukrungruang, Ingrid Horrocks, Elena Passarello, and Aviya Kushner. Each writer's innovative essay probes our notions of genre and investigates how creative nonfiction is shaped, modeling the forms of writing being discussed. Like creative nonfiction itself, Bending Genre is an exciting hybrid that breaks
