Religions And Development Carole Rakodi Gov:

Religion, Religious Organisations and Development Carole Rakodi, 2016-04-04 This collection adds to a burgeoning literature concerned with the roles played by religions in development. The authors do not assume that religion and religious organisations can be used to achieve development objectives or that religiously inspired development work is more holistic, transformative and authentic. Instead, they subject such assumptions to critical and as far as possible objective scrutiny, focusing on how adherents of several religious traditions and a variety of organisations affiliated with different religions perceive the idea of development and attempt to contribute to its objectives. Geographically, chapters in the volume encompass Africa, South Asia and the Asia Pacific. Four of the papers have an international focus, providing a preliminary framework for analysing the role of religion in development, considering the roles played by faith-inspired organisations in two regions, the Asia Pacific and Sub-Saharan Africa, and analysing transnational Muslim NGOs. The individual case studies focus on nine countries: India, Kenya, Pakistan, Nigeria, Tanzania, Sudan, Malawi, Sri Lanka, South Africa, considering four religions: Islam, Hinduism, Christianity, Buddhism, and can be grouped under four themes: they consider religion, wellbeing and inequality; the roles of religious NGOs in development; whether and how religious organisations influence, respond to or resist social change; and whether religious service providers reach the poor. Finally, practice notes show how three religious development organisations try to put their principles into practice. This book was published as a special double issue of Development in Practice.

Religion and Society in Sub-Saharan Africa and Southern Asia Carole Rakodi, 2019-03-18 This book analyses how religion is entangled in people's lives in Sub-Saharan Africa and southern Asia. It provides an introduction to the teachings, practices and values promoted by the main religious traditions in these regions and an overview of the evidence on what religion means to people in terms of their beliefs and religious practices and how it influences their values, attitudes and day-to-day relationships with others, especially their families. Over the course of the book, Carole Rakodi explores similarities and differences between and within religious traditions and identifies some of the key factors that influence and explain the roles played by religion in people's personal lives and social relationships. A separate companion volume will go on to focus on the social and political roles and relationships of religious groups and organisations. This book will be of great interest to academics and students working in a range of disciplines, especially sociology, religious studies and development studies, but also anthropology, geography and area studies.

Religion, Education and Society Elisabeth Arweck, Robert Jackson, 2016-03-16 This volume presents findings from recent research focusing on young people and the way they relate to religion in their education and upbringing. The essays are diverse and multidisciplinary in terms of the religions they discuss, including Christianity, Islam and Sikhism; the settings where young people reflect on religion, the classroom, youth club, peer group, families, respective religious communities and wider society; the different perspectives which relate to religious education and socialisation; the teaching of RE; the role of teachers in pupils' lives; the way teachers personal lives shape their approach to teaching school ethos and social context and the place and rationale of RE the contexts within which the authors work different national settings and various academic disciplines and the methodology used qualitative quantitative and mixed method approaches The authors make important contributions to the debate about the role of religious education in the curriculum They demonstrate the crucially important formative influence of religious education in young people s lives which reaches well into their adulthood shaping religious and other identities and attitudes towards the other whatever that other may be This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Beliefs Values

Religious Organisations in Sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia Carole Rakodi, 2024-02-05 This book explores the links between religion states social welfare and social change in Sub Saharan Africa and South Asia Building on the author s previous analysis of how religious beliefs practices and values influence social behaviour and relationships especially within families this book focuses on the organisational characteristics of religions and societies The book considers how Muslim Christian Hindu and Buddhist organisations working in different contexts express the religious values of charity and compassion in practical activities to improve social welfare Drawing on extensive empirical research the book maps the organisations involved identifying the factors that explain their choice of activities sources of funding and modes of organisation and highlighting similarities and differences between the religious traditions It considers the involvement of religious actors in school level education as well as in international humanitarian relief and reconstruction and addresses the claim that religious organisations have distinctive features that give them comparative advantages Finally the book reviews research on the roles of religious values and organisations in resisting or promoting social change focusing on women s movements especially their campaigns for changes in family law and the quest for social and legal recognition for sexual and gender minorities The book s wide coverage of two subcontinents in the Global South and several important religious traditions will be of interest to researchers and students in the fields of sociology international development religious studies anthropology and area studies as well as to those engaged in policy and action who are looking to improve their understanding of the complex social cultural political and religious contexts in which they work

Religion, Welfare and Social Service Provision Robert Wineburg, Jay Poole, 2019-04-16 Religion Welfare and Social Service Provision Common Ground delves deeply into the partnerships forged between religious communities government agencies and nonprofits to deliver social services to the needy These pages offer a considered examination of how local faith entities have served those in their midst and how the provision of those services has been impacted by evolving social policies This foundational volume brings together the work of more than two dozen leading researchers each providing long overdue scholarly inquiry into religiously affiliated helping and the many possibilities that it holds for effective cooperation

Religion and the Politics of Development P. Fountain, R. Bush, M. Feener, 2015-04-07 This volume brings emerging research on religion and development into conversation with politics Deploying innovative conceptual frameworks and drawing on empirical research from across contemporary Asia this collection makes an incisive contribution to the analysis of aid and development processes The Routledge Handbook of Religions and Global Development Emma Tomalin, 2015-02-11 This Handbook provides a cutting edge survey of the state of research on religions and global development Part one highlights critical debates that have emerged within research on religions and development particularly with respect to theoretical conceptual and methodological considerations from the perspective of development studies and its associated disciplines Parts two to six look at different regional and national development contexts and the place of religion within these These parts integrate and examine the critical debates raised in part one within empirical case studies from a range of religions and regions Different religions are situated within actual locations and case studies thus allowing a detailed and contextual understanding of their relationships to development to emerge Part seven examines the links between some important areas within development policy and practice where religion is now being considered including Faith Based Organisations and Development Public Health Religion and Development Human rights Religion and Development Sustainable Development Climate Change and Religion Global Institutions and Religious Engagement in Development Economic Development and Religion Religion Development and Fragile States Development and Faith Based Education Taking a global approach the Handbook covers Africa Latin America South Asia East and South East Asia and the Middle East It is essential reading for students and researchers in development studies and religious studies and is highly relevant to those working in area studies as well as a range of disciplines from theology anthropology and economics to geography international relations politics and sociology

Finding Faith in Foreign Policy Gregorio Bettiza, 2019-06-04 Since the end of the Cold War religion has become an ever more explicit and systematic focus of US foreign policy across multiple domains US foreign policymakers for instance have been increasingly tasked with monitoring religious freedom and promoting it globally delivering humanitarian and development aid abroad by drawing on faith based organizations fighting global terrorism by seeking to reform Muslim societies and Islamic theologies and advancing American interests and values more broadly worldwide by engaging with religious actors and dynamics Simply put religion has become a major subject and object of American foreign policy in ways that were unimaginable just a few decades ago In Finding Faith in Foreign Policy Gregorio Bettiza explains the causes and consequences of this shift by developing an original theoretical framework and drawing upon extensive empirical research and interviews He argues that American foreign policy and religious forces have become ever more inextricably entangled in an age witnessing a global resurgence of religion and the emergence of a postsecular world society He further shows how the boundaries between faith and state have been redefined through processes of desecularization in the context of American foreign policy leading the most powerful state in the international system to intervene and reshape in increasingly sustained ways sacred and secular landscapes around the globe Drawing from a rich evidentiary base spanning twenty five years Finding Faith in Foreign Policy details how a wave of religious enthusiasm has transformed not just American foreign policy but the entire international system Understanding the Roles of Religions in Development Carole Rakodi,2007 A Guide to Analyzing the Relationships Between Religion and Development Carole Rakodi,Religions and Development Research Programme,University of Birmingham.
