Stranger at the Door Kristjana Gunnars, 2011-04-07 At the beginning of a new writing project whether it's the first page of a new novel or a less ambitious project writers often experience exhilaration fear or dread For Kristjana Gunnars the call of a new project is like someone you don't know knocking on your door you either choose to let the person in or not It's both exciting and dangerous to start a new manuscript This book is an engagement with that stranger called writing Creative or imaginative writing is a complex process that involves more than intellect alone Writers make use of everything their sensibilities history culture knowledge experience education and even their biology These essays seek out and gather into a discussion what writers have said about their own experiences in writing Although the writers are from around the world and of very different backgrounds the commonality of their remarks brings home the realization that writers everywhere are grappling with similar problems with the seemingly simple problems of when where why and what to write but also larger questions such as the relationship between writer and society or issues of privacy appropriation or homelessness While none of these questions can be definitively answered they can be fruitfully discussed Originating as questions posed in creative writing seminars these essays have grown into companion texts for both writers and readers who want to participate in a conversation about what writers do

Chinese American Literature without Borders King-Kok Cheung, 2017-02-18 This book bridges comparative literature and American studies by using an intercultural and bilingual approach to Chinese American literature King Kok Cheung launches a new transnational exchange by examining both Chinese and Chinese American writers Part 1 presents alternative forms of masculinity that transcend conventional associations of valor with aggression It examines gender refashioning in light of the Chinese dyadic ideal of wen wu verbal arts and martial arts while redefining both in the process Part 2 highlights the writers formal innovations by presenting alternative autobiography theory metafiction and translation In doing so Cheung puts in relief the literary experiments of the writers who interweave hybrid poetics with two pronged geopolitical critiques The writers examined provide a reflexive lens through which transpacific audiences are beckoned to view the other country and to look homeward without blinders
