Crossing Textual Boundaries in International Children's Literature Lance Weldy,2011-01-18 As the first part of the title indicates my interest in looking at intertextuality and transformation still maintains a prominent place throughout this book as well If we believe that no text is an island then we will understand that the relationships between and within texts across the years become a fascinating place for academic inquiry I included the word boundaries into the title because we never get tired of voicing our opinions about texts which traverse relegated boundaries such as genre or medium Not only am I interested in discussing what these changes across boundaries mean socially historically and culturally but also what they mean geographically which accounts for the second part of my title I am very excited that this book will be placing even more emphasis on children s literature in an international scene than my first book did in the sense that I have added more scholars on an international level I hesitate to list the nationalities of all of the contributors here because quite a few have themselves crossed international boundaries in different ways by either studying abroad or finding permanent residency in foreign countries Nevertheless the writers have lived extensively in or identify as being from Australia Canada England Finland Germany Greece Iceland Ireland Israel Norway Spain Sweden Turkey the United States of America and Wales Introduction Children's Writer Guide To 2001 Catherine Frey Murphy,Vicki Hambleton,Mark Haverstock,Suzanne Lieurance,2001 Changing Concepts of Childhood and Children's Literature Vanessa Joosen,Katrien Vloeberghs,2006 The varied collection of essays presented in this volume bridges the gap between continental and Anglo American approaches to children TM s literature and discuss the state of the art of what is topical in children TM s literature studies in Europe and the United States Varied as the different subject areas under discussion are considering different subgenres historical periods and geographical contexts two main themes surface in nearly all the essays ideology and children TM s literature on the one hand and images of childhood on the other The contributions illustrate the wide range of subject areas and the increasing level of sophistication with which criticism of ideology and Cultural Studies have enriched children's literature criticism. The essays address among others the influence of globalisation and mass market culture on the production of children's books as well as the choices governing the production of translations and adaptations of texts for young readers. Representing a broad array of methodological approaches and of representations of childhood, this publication intends to render visible actual manifestations of the tension between pedagogy and aesthetics inherent to and constitutive of children's literature. The Rhetorical Power of Children's Literature John H. Saunders, 2016-12-21. The Rhetorical Power of Children's Literature is an edited volume with contributions from established and new scholars of rhetoric offering case studies that analyze a full array of genres in children's literature from picture books to young adult novels. Collectively, this volume's contributions interrogate how children's literature is a powerful yet under-examined space of rhetorical discourse that influences one of the most vulnerable segments of our population. This book is singularly unique given that it will be the first collection of essays on children's literature from the distinct perspective of the field of Communication. Beyond topical novelty, the contributors utilize a range of scholarly methods to analyze instances of the rhetoric of children's literature. Consequently, essays in this volume may be read for both their specific topical content and as exemplars for multiple methodological approaches to the study of the rhetoric of children's literature. Collectively, the contributors set out to contribute to our knowledge of how instances of children's literature operate as rhetorical discourses. The volume is organized by case studies approached through critical rhetorical lenses that analyze specific instances of children's literature from two distinct stages of children's developmental reading experiences including pre-early literacy and fluent reading. Structurally, the book includes eight content chapters divided evenly with four chapters analyzing books for young children and four chapters analyzing books targeting audiences from late childhood to adolescence. An overview of each content chapter accompanies this proposal.

Through the Eyes of a Child Donna E. Norton, Sandra E. Norton, Amy A. McClure, 2003. In its seventh edition, Through the Eyes of a Child: An Introduction to Children's Literature continues to be a visually stunning, theoretically sound, comprehensive overview of children's literature. It focuses squarely on selecting and evaluating quality literature to share with children and guiding them to appreciate and respond to that literature. This edition features multicultural literature and young adult literature in every chapter, expanded coverage of biographies and informational books, and over 100 new children's titles referenced throughout. A children's literature CD-ROM accompanies the book and contains bibliographic information for thousands of titles, making it even easier to share quality literature with children and adolescents. Proteus, 2009.

Instructor, 2002-08. You are what You Eat Annette M. Magid, 2008. A collection of essays immersed in the culture of food, expanded across genres, disciplines, and time. It addresses a range of interests appealing to diverse audiences, expanding from college students to food enthusiasts and scholars.
