Framing Social Theory Paola Rebughini, Enzo Colombo, 2022-08-31 This book proposes a reconstruction of contemporary social theory focusing on thematic issues rather than on authors or schools of thought In so doing it endeavours to bridge epistemological approaches and locate critical claims shared by the main trajectories and notions of sociological theoretical debate The book explores the current forms of social science theorization through the key themes of Agency Anthropocene Coloniality Intersectionality Othering Singularization Technoscience and Uncertainty Focusing on these key themes it highlights their usefulness for discussions of inequality neoliberalism eurocentrism androcentrism or anthropocentrism in order to examine these issues in a new light and look beyond the classic divides of social theory Intended for an academic audience interested in social theory scholars and post graduate students in sociology social sciences anthropology social geography social psychology and globalization studies will find this book useful The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Assessing Dynamic Social Landscapes in Urban Areas Erez Buda, Dani Broitman, 2022 Beyond the physical urban structure that can be relatively easily observed there are social landscapes defined by the socio economic realities of the individuals households and communities that live in this urban structure The social landscapes are more dynamic than the urban structure being influenced by relatively rapidly changing preferences and location choices We develop a simple and well defined methodology to assess the social landscapes in urban areas allowing the evaluating of their dynamics over time Using only detailed data about income and real estate transactions four different indexes related to land values local average income inequality and segregation are used to map the social landscapes in an urban area and its evolution over time The results demonstrate that the social landscape dynamics are not simple nor even always intuitive Well known urban processes as gentrification can be identified by social landscapes but also unexpected processes are observable The main goal of the suggested methodology is to describe the spatiotemporal dynamics of social landscapes without using contextual data In other words there is no need to know any specific characteristics of the urban area excepting the data required for the indexes calculation Therefore the suggested method is used to identify areas of interest and generate further questions about the social geographical economic and historical drivers behind the observed social landscape dynamics Doing so it is a possible and valuable complement to urban sociological studies focused in advance on specific areas or population groups

The Culture and Communities Mapping Project Morgan Currie, Melisa Miranda Correa, 2022-01-01 This book describes three years of work by the Culture and Communities Mapping Project a research project based in Edinburgh that uses maps as an object of study and also a means to facilitate research Taking a self reflexive approach the book draws on a variety of iterative mapping procedures and visual methodologies from online virtual tours to photo elicitation to capture the voices of inhabitants and their distinctive perspectives on the city The book argues that practices of cultural mapping consist of a research field in and of itself and it situates this work in relation to other areas of research and practice including critical cartography cultural geography critical GIS activist mapping and artist maps The book also offers a range of practical approaches towards using print and web based maps to give visibility to spaces traditionally left out of city representations but that are important to the local communities that use them Throughout the authors reflect critically on how through the processes of mapping we create knowledge about space place community and culture

Maps of Meaning Peter Jackson,2012-11-12 This innovative book marks a significant departure from tradition analyses of the evolution of cultural landscapes and the interpretation of past environments Maps of Meaning proposes a new agenda for cultural geography one set squarely in the context of contemporary social and cultural theory Notions of place and space are explored through the study of elite and popular cultures gender and sexuality race language and ideology Questioning the ways in which we invest the world with meaning the book is an introduction to both culture s geographies and the geography of culture

Mapping Reality Geoff King,1996-04-12 An original and wide ranging study of the mappings used to impose meaning on the world Mapping Reality argues that maps create rather than merely represent the ground on which they rest Distinctions between map and territory questioned by some theorists of the postmodern have always been arbitrary From the history of cartography to the mappings of culture sexuality and nation Geoff King draws on an extensive range of materials including mappings imposed in the colonial settlement of America the Cold War Vietnam and the events since the collapse of the Soviet bloc He argues for a deconstruction of the opposition between map and territory to allow dominant mappings to be challenged their contours redrawn and new grids imposed Variations on Social Landscape, 1987 Situational Analysis in Practice Adele E. Clarke, Rachel Washburn, Carrie Friese, 2022-04-19 Situational Analysis SA uses analytic maps of the situation processes and relations identified using approaches pioneered in Grounded Theory Creator of the method award winning sociologist Adele E Clarke with Rachel Washburn and Carrie Friese show how the method can be and has been used in a variety of critical qualitative studies The entirely new second edition of this book offers several chapters on the method and new introductory material from the editors about developments in using SA in qualitative inquiry Part I introduces readers to the method of SA discussing recent developments in the field Part II offers five new chapters about various facets of the SA method including a history of Grounded Theory and Situational Analysis SA as critical pragmatist interactionism using SA in managing a mixed methods project and SA mapping in the social policy classroom and in clinical counseling as innovatively collaborative analysis Part III offers six new exemplary research articles drawn from energy research and international relations public health research methods disabled access to public transportation participation in conservation in a biosphere reserve and PTSD and the military Authors reflections on their experiences in using the method are also included These carefully selected new readings vividly demonstrate how widely this method has travelled successfully meeting the needs of diverse researchers seeking an innovative relational approach to critically analyzing a wide array of data Situational Analysis in Practice will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students practicing the SA method across the social sciences including sociology and healthcare among other disciplines as well as research scholars interested in qualitative inquiry Mapping and Field Work American Landscape School, 196? Mapping Cultures L. Roberts, 2012-01-01 An interdisciplinary collection exploring the practices and cultures of mapping in the arts humanities and social sciences It features contributions from scholars in critical cartography social anthropology film and cultural studies literary studies art and visual culture marketing museum studies architecture and popular music studies Building Successful Online Communities Robert E. Kraut, Paul Resnick, 2016-02-12 How insights from the social sciences including social psychology and economics can improve the design of online communities Online communities are among the most popular destinations on the Internet but not all online communities are equally successful For every flourishing Facebook there is a moribund Friendster not to mention the scores of smaller social networking sites that never attracted enough members to be viable This book offers lessons from theory and empirical research in the social sciences that can help improve the design of online communities The authors draw on the literature in psychology economics and other social sciences as well as their own research translating general findings into useful design claims They explain for example how to encourage information contributions based on the theory of public goods and how to build members commitment based on theories of interpersonal bond formation For each design claim they offer supporting evidence from theory experiments or observational studies
