Oracy in English Language Education Julia Reckermann, Philipp Siepmann, Frauke Matz, 2024-06-07 This book

innovatively connects the two fields of oracy and practice oriented empirical research in English language education. It creates synergies and proposes innovative approaches to the study of oracy in the context of learning and teaching English as a second additional or foreign language. The book also develops a contemporary and holistic concept of oracy thus contributing to the theoretical discourse in this area of research. The first part provides a general framework of different approaches to conducting practice oriented research in English language teaching. It introduces the concept of oracy and discusses its relevance to language teaching. Design based research and action research are outlined as two practice oriented research approaches. The second part presents research on how oracy can be fostered and assessed at primary and secondary levels while the third part focuses on tertiary education. The contributions to this book highlight the opportunities and challenges of conducting research in on and for classroom practice with stakeholders such as teachers, students, teacher trainees, university students, parents and school administrators. They explore selected teaching methods, assessment and finally teacher education. The theoretical, methodological and practical challenges of research practice partnerships are also addressed. This book demonstrates that innovative approaches to the development and assessment of oral skills can be developed through close collaboration between different stakeholders in language education. It serves as an inspiration for other educators and researchers in the field of English language education at all levels.

Essential Competencies for English-medium University Teaching Ruth Breeze, Carmen Sancho Guinda, 2016-10-06. As English gains prominence as the language of higher education across the world, many institutions and lecturers are becoming increasingly concerned with the implications of this trend for the quality of university teaching and learning. With an innovative approach in both theme and scope, this book addresses four major competencies that are essential to ensure the effectiveness of English medium higher education: creativity, critical thinking, autonomy and motivation. It offers an integrated perspective, both theoretical and practical, which defines these competences from different angles within ELT and Applied Linguistics while also exploring their points of contact and applications to classroom routines. This approach is intended to provide practical guidance and inspiration in the form of pedagogical proposals, examples of teaching practice and cutting edge research by scholars and university teachers from all over the world. To that end, a leading specialist in the field introduces each of the four competencies, explaining concepts accessibly and synthetically, exposing false myths, presenting an updated state of the art and opening windows for future studies. These introductions are followed by practitioner chapters written by teachers and scholars from different cultures and university contexts who reflect on their experience and/or research and share effective procedures and suggestions for the university class with English as a vehicle for instruction.
