Leadership has been a subject of numerous studies. Ancient literature, be it Egyptian, Chinese, Indian and many others, highlight the importance of leadership and the role of the leader. Indian classics like Mahabharata, and Ramayana are replete with leadership illustrations. This interest has continued in the modern times as well. Over time, many theories on Leadership have emerged as a result of empirical and conceptual contributions. King (1990) opined that Leadership is one of the most intricate and multifaceted occurrences that has been the focus of organizational and psychological studies.

King (1990) presented an overview of various leadership eras in his review. This review indicated that each leadership era symbolized a higher state of development in leadership thought compared to the earlier era. He also noted disenchantment at the end of each leadership era leading to search for an alternative model. These eras are shown in Fig 2.1.

The Personality Era focused on the leader as an individual or as a person. The attention was on the background or traits of the individual. This era has two streams, i.e., the Great Man Period and the Trait Period. The Great Man Period suggested that an individual who emulated great personalities was expected to emerge as a strong leader. In this Era, leadership was mainly equated with personality. Under the Trait Period, there was an endeavour to enlist the attributes which if espoused, would predict the performance of a leader.

Under the Influence Era leadership was considered as an association between people and not a trait. This paved the way for Behaviour Era, in which, leadership was considered to be a subset of human conduct. In this Era, Theory X&Y, the Managerial Grid Model received significant attention.

Under the Situational Era, it was acknowledged that there were aspects which extended beyond the leader and the subordinate. These situational facets decided which types of leader attributes, skills, impact and conducts led to successful leadership. Under the Contingency Era, there were

The Contemporary Superintendent Meredith Mountford, Leigh E. Wallace, 2019-06-01 What is R Evolutionary Leadership Why Does it Matter How can contemporary school district administrators specifically superintendents contend with so many difficult and almost impossible competing commitments Building on the definitions of revolution revolutionary evolution and evolutionary the notion of R Evolutionary Leadership emerged while discussing the need for school district leaders to push back against the status quo while improving teacher and leadership practices improving student learning outcomes engaging with the community and ensuring decision making processes that include check and balance systems that are just fair and equitable for all The chapters in this book introduce superintendents or research on superintendents in which these tenants were practiced both in their ability to enact radical change by overthrowing the status quo as well as evolutionary in their deliberate approach to viewing change as a process they can control over time These leaders were willing to confront and defy practices and policies that were counter to student well being and achievement while concurrently knowing how to reach their desired results The chapters chosen for inclusion in this volume are those that offered a glimpse of these revolutionary tenants in practice We ask that you consider this emerging concept as you explore the chapters of our book You will find the R evolutionary Leaders you meet in the chapters know how to evolve not just to stay alive but to ensure the organization school remains relevant and vital to society These leaders use their positional power social capital and expertise to advocate for policies and practices that are in the best interest of the school community and they innovate in ways that challenge the status quo You will also find practices that are R Evolutionary and provide ways for leaders to innovate collaborate and simply take care of themselves and those around them Our description does not seek to support or define or delineate the characteristics of a R Evolutionary Leader or how one might enact R Evolutionary Leadership but serves as a way to re think the way we view the vastly complex work of school district administrators specifically the superintendent R Evolutionary leadership may change our ways of thinking about the significant advocacy role a superintendent can play in influencing both practice and policy to enact the change necessary to move forward issues of justice equity and quality in PK 12 schools and further to improve educational and social outcomes for those served
