Hermeneutics and the Human Sciences Paul Ricoeur, 1981-08-31 A collection in translation of essays by Paul Ricoeur

Hermeneutics and the Human Sciences Paul Ricoeur, 1990 The Holy Spirit and the Reformation Legacy Mark J.

Cartledge, Mark A. Jumper, 2020-09-16 This collection of essays explores the legacy of the Reformation with regard to the person and work of the Holy Spirit Following the five hundredth anniversary of Luther's posting of his ninety five theses these essays consider this legacy with particular reference to the work of Martin Luther and John Calvin as well as broader Reformation themes as they are related to pneumatology and the life of the church today The contribution of this collection is to tease out and reflect on pneumatology historically but also to relate these findings to contemporary discussions especially among scholars of pentecostal and charismatic Christianity Together these essays invite readers to appreciate the contribution that the Protestant Reformation makes to life in the Holy Spirit today as well as offering critical and constructive reflection on this theme It is a timely and significant contribution to the discussions of the person and work of the Holy Spirit and the church

D.H. Lawrence: The Thinker as Poet F. Becket, 2015-12-17 D H Lawrence The Thinker as Poet addresses a particular body of language and thought within Lawrence's oeuvre where the metaphorical the poetic and the philosophical are intricately enmeshed Lawrence emerges as a writer who pulls metaphor away from its merely rhetorical moorings his distinctive style is the hallmark of one who thinks not analytically but poetically about the birth of the self the body unconscious complex kinds of otherness and about metaphor itself as a mode of understanding A Companion to Ricoeur's The Symbolism of Evil Scott Davidson, 2020-05-20 The Symbolism of Evil is the final book in Ricoeur's early trilogy on the will While Freedom and Nature sets aside normative questions altogether and Fallible Man examines the question of what makes the bad will possible here Ricoeur takes up the question of evil in its actuality What is the nature of the will that has succumbed to evil The question of evil resists reflection and remains inscrutable leading Ricoeur to proceed indirectly through a study of the abundant resources contained in symbols and myths Symbols as Ricoeur famously says give rise to thought and thereby open up a field of meanings which help to inform a philosophical reflection on evil This hermeneutics of symbols signals an important shift in Ricoeur's philosophical trajectory which increasingly turns to language and the various forms of discourse which harbor multiple meanings The contributors to this volume edited by Scott Davidson highlight a wide range of important themes in Ricoeur's treatment of the symbolics of evil that resonate with current topics in contemporary philosophy and religion The Ethnological Imagination Fuyuki Kurasawa, 2004 Fuyuki Kurasawa unearths what he terms the ethnological imagination a substantial countercurrent of thought that interprets and contests Western modernity's existing social order through comparison and contrast to a non Western other Kurasawa traces and critiques the writings of some of the key architects of this way of thinking Jean Jacques Rousseau Karl Marx Max Weber Emile Durkheim Claude Levi

Strauss and Michel Foucault In the work of these thinkers Kurasawa finds little justification for two of the most prevalent claims about social theory the wholesale postmodern dismissal of the social theoretical enterprise because of its supposedly intractable ethnocentrism and imperialism or on the other hand the traditionalist and historicist revival of a canon stripped of its intercultural foundations Kurasawa's book defends a cultural perspective that eschews both the false universalism of end of history scenarios and the radical particularism embodied in the vision of the clash of civilizations It contends that the ethnological imagination can invigorate critical social theory by informing its response to an increasingly multicultural world a response that calls for a reconsideration of the identity and boundaries of the West Evoking Story for

Transformation Lyn Nixon, 2025-08-21 Lyn Nixon takes a fresh approach to the question of whether New Testament authors quote the Old Testament without regard to the original Old Testament meaning that is out of context Her action model uses Speech Act Theory to examine the way authors and readers together contribute to the communication of meaning In her model for meaning to be successfully communicated the reader must experience the transformation intended by the author Lyn Nixon applies her theoretical model to two examples of New Testament quotation where previous scholars have claimed the author quotes the Old Testament in a way that does not correspond to the original meaning Her case studies the use of Ps 115 1 LXX in 2 Cor 4 13 and of Ps 110 1 MT by various New Testament speakers and authors provide new insights into ways that the Old Testament meaning including its transformative intention resonates in the quoting of New Testament texts

The History of Continental Philosophy Alan D. Schrift, 2011-01-01 From Kant to Kierkegaard from Hegel to Heidegger

continental philosophers have indelibly shaped the trajectory of Western thought since the eighteenth century. Although much has been written about these monumental thinkers, students and scholars lack a definitive guide to the entire scope of the continental tradition. The most comprehensive reference work to date, this eight-volume History of Continental Philosophy will both encapsulate the subject and reorient our understanding of it. Beginning with an overview of Kant's philosophy and its initial reception, the History traces the evolution of continental philosophy through major figures as well as movements such as existentialism, phenomenology, hermeneutics, and poststructuralism. The final volume outlines the current state of the field, bringing the work of both historical and modern thinkers to bear on such contemporary topics as feminism, globalization, and the environment. Throughout, the volumes examine important philosophical figures and developments in their historical, political, and cultural contexts. The first reference of its kind, A History of Continental Philosophy has been written and edited by internationally recognized experts with a commitment to explaining complex thinkers' texts and movements in rigorous yet jargon-free essays suitable for both undergraduates and seasoned specialists. These volumes also elucidate ongoing debates about the nature of continental and analytic philosophy, surveying the distinctive, sometimes overlapping characteristics and approaches of each tradition. Featuring helpful overviews of major topics and plotting road maps to their underlying contexts, A History of Continental Philosophy is destined to be the resource of first and last resort for students and scholars alike.

Lonergan, Hermeneutics & Theological Method Donna Teevan, 2005      The Best Books for Academic Libraries:
Religion and philosophy, 2002      Philosophy and Friendship Sandra Lynch, 2005. This book explains the persistence of friendship today in the light of the history of philosophical approaches to the subject.      The Aesthetics of Autonomy Farhang Erfani, 2011-02-22. The Aesthetics of Autonomy: Ricœur and Sartre on Emancipation, Authenticity, and Selfhood argues that despite their differences, Sartre and Ricœur have a similar goal. While they are both anti-essentialists, they nevertheless advocate for the notions of selfhood and autonomy. Autonomy for them is the end result of an aesthetic path. An identity at the individual or collective level is created by weaving together contingent threads of the given. In other words, identity is a narrative construct. The first two chapters focus on the respective methods of Sartre and Ricœur. Despite their different emphases, Farhang Erfani argues that they have a similar dialectical method between the situation and our ability to surpass it for Sartre and between sedimentation and innovation for Ricœur. The third chapter brings them together and shows how they can complement each other in building a narrative identity at the individual level. Ricœur is helpful in appreciating Sartrean notions of bad faith and authenticity. The fourth and final chapter turns to collective identity. Erfani argues that Ricœur's notions of ideology and utopia are better complemented with Sartrean political ethics. Erfani advocates for a Sartrean model of Dark Utopianism that overcomes the limits of Ricœur's political philosophy. Reading Sartre and Ricœur together provides for a balanced approach to the question of autonomy that at once pays due attention to the weight of the situation and the past while opening up the space for change, innovation, and progress. The conclusion accordingly applies this thesis to the question of globalization Both Sartre and Ric ur scholars will be eager to explore and debate the original synthesis presented in The Aesthetics of Autonomy It also makes contributions to hermeneutics post War French philosophy and philosophy of religion Finally given its emphases on politics and aesthetics the book also places itself within arguments of political theory and literary theory Human and Divine Gwen Griffith Dickson,2000-11-30 In this introduction to the philosophical study of religion Gwen Griffith Dickson attempts to fill an important gap by considering these questions squarely in the context of the world s many religions and philosophical traditions Theories of Human Communication Stephen W.
