A Subaltern History of the Indian Diaspora in Singapore John Solomon, 2016-03-31 Untouchable migrants made up a substantial proportion of Indian labour migration into Singapore in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries During this period they were subject to forms of caste prejudice and discrimination that powerfully reinforced their identities as untouchables overseas Today however untouchability has disappeared from the public sphere and has been replaced by other notions of identity leaving unanswered questions as to how and when this occurred The untouchable migrant is also largely absent from popular narratives of the past This book takes the disappearance as a starting point to examine a history of untouchable migration amongst Indians who arrived in Singapore from its modern founding as a British colony in the early nineteenth century through to its independence in 1965 Using oral history records archival sources colonial ethnography newspapers and interviews this book examines the lives of untouchable migrants through their everyday experience in an overseas multi ethnic environment It examines how these migrants who in many ways occupied the bottom rungs of their communities and colonial society framed transnational issues of identity and social justice in relation to their experiences within the broader Indian diaspora in Singapore The book traces the manner in which untouchable identities evolved and then receded in response to the dramatic social changes brought about by colonialism war and post colonial nationhood By focusing on a subaltern group from the past this study provides an alternative history of Indian migration to Singapore and a different
