Harris, 2021-11-22 The essays in this collection reveal that the social and political development of post apartheid South Africa depends to an important degree on the evolving cultural social and political identities of its diverse population and on the role of the media of mass communications in the country s new multicultural democracy The popular struggle against the country s former apartheid regime and the on going democratisation of South African politics have generated enormous creativity and inspiration as well as many contradictions and unfulfilled expectations In the present

period of social transformation the legacy of the country's past is both a source of continuing conflict and tension as well as a cause for celebration and hope Post apartheid South Africa provides an important case study of social transformation and how the cultural social and political identities of a diverse population and the structure and practices of the media of mass communications affect the prospects for developing a multicultural democracy The promise and the challenge of building a multicultural democratic society in a country with a racist and violent authoritarian legacy involves people with different identities and interests learning how to respect their differences and to live together in peace It involves developing an inclusive or overarching common identity and a commitment to working together for a common destiny based on social equity and justice South Africa's media of mass communications have an important role to play in the process of unprecedented social transformation both in developing the respect for differences and the overarching identity as well as providing the public forum and the channels of communication needed for the successful development of the country's multicultural democracy In South Africa the democratization of the media must go hand in hand with the democratization of the political system in order to ensure that the majority of the citizenry participate effectively in the country's multicultural democracy Topics covered include The Struggle for African Identity Thabo Mbeki's African Renaissance Between the Local and the Global South African Languages and the Internet Shooting the East Veils and Masks Uncovering Orientalism in South African Media and Black and White in Ink Discourses of Resistance in South African Cartooning Contributors are Pal Ahluwalia Gabeba Baderoon Richard L Harris Sean Jacobs Elizabeth Le Roux Andy Mason Thembisa Mjwacu Herman Wasserman and Abebe Zegeye

The Future of Television in the Global South George Ogola, 2023-04-11 This book explores how television in the global South is future proofing its continued relevance addressing its commercial social and political viability in a constantly changing information ecosystem The chapter contributions in the book are drawn from countries in East South and West Africa the Middle East and Latin America specially selected for their illustrative potential of the key issues addressed in the book Scholarly attention on television in the global South has largely been limited to studying evolving television formats with broader structural issues covered almost entirely by industry reports Major gaps remain in terms of understanding how television in the global South is changing within the context of the significant technological developments and what this means for television's future's The chapters reflect on these futures not in the sense of predicting what these might be but rather anticipating important areas of intellection The contributors contend that much of the scholarship on the global South by scholars from the South is often stilted by a reluctance to anticipate This failure leads to a largely reactionary scholarship constantly oppositional and unable to recentre conversations on the South This volume finds intellectual incentive in this urgent need to anticipate hence its particular focus on television futures Taking television in the global South as an important cultural and political barometer the book seeks to explore how television in the global South is adapting to the rampant technological changes and processes of globalisation
