Mohajirs in the 1990s The book critically evaluates the literature on ethnicity and nationalism by taking nationalist ideology and the political divisions which it generates within ethnic groups as essential in estimating ethnic movements It goes on to challenge the modernist argument that nationalism is only relevant to modern industrialised socio economic settings The available evidence from Pakistan makes clear that ethnic movements emanate from three distinct socio economic realms tribal Baloch rural Sindh and urban Mohajir and the book looks at the implications that this has as well as how further arguments could be advanced about the relevance of ethnic movements and politics in the Third World It provides academics and researchers with background knowledge of how the Baloch Sindhi and Mohajir ethnic conflict in Pakistan took shape in a historical context as well as probable future scenarios of the relationship between the Pakistani state and government and ethnic groups and movements
