* Believers supplication to Allah.

Guidance is also provided concerning social, cultural, economic, political and legal issues through addressing the Jews who were acquainted with the Unity of Allah, Prophethood, Revelation, the Hereafter and Angels. The Jews professed to believe in the law which was revealed by Allah to their Prophet Moses (pbuh). In principle, their religion was the same (Islam) that was being taught by the Prophet Muhammad (pbuh). Although they were originally Muslims, they had swerved from the real Islam and made innovations and alterations to their religion. As a result, they had fallen victims to hair splitting and sectarianism, so much so that they had even given up their original name "Muslim" and adopted the name "Jew" instead, and made religion a monopoly of the children of Israel. This was Jews religious condition when the Prophet went to Madinah and invited them to the True Religion. More than one third of this Sûrah (Chapter) addresses the Children of Israel. A critical review of their history, moral degeneration and religious perversions has been made, to draw clear lines of demarcation between the essentials and nonessentials of the True Religion. The Jews are warned not to mix up the Truth with Falsehood.

During this period, a new type of Muslims called "Munâfiqûn" (hypocrites), had emerged. There were some who had entered the fold of Islam merely to harm it from within. There were others who were surrounded by Muslims, and become "Muslims" to safeguard their worldly interests. They, therefore, continued to have relations with the unbelievers so that if they became successful, their interests would remain secure. Allah has, therefore, briefly pointed out the characteristics of the hypocrites in this Sûrah. Later on when their mischievous deeds became manifest, detailed instructions were given in Sûrah At-Tauba.

In brief, this Sûrah is an invitation towards the Divine Guidance. All stories, examples and incidents mentioned in this Sûrah revolve around this central theme. This Sûrah particularly addresses the Jews and cites many incidents from their history to admonish and advise them that accepting the Guidance revealed to the Prophet Muhammad (pbuh) is in their best interest. They should, therefore, be the first to accept it, because this Message is basically the same as was revealed to the Prophet Musa (Moses), peace be upon him.

The Literature of Islam Paula

Youngman Skreslet, Rebecca Skreslet, 2006-09-20 This book introduces the literature of Islam as it is presented in English translation For scholars in other fields who need to understand the vast and complex literary heritage of this erudite and vigorous faith community but are unable to devote years of their lives to achieving a reading proficiency in classical Arabic for faculty members called upon to teach introductory or survey courses outside their own disciplines and for graduate students in theology medieval studies world religions or related fields who need access to these primary sources in English translation The Literature of Islam is a welcome resource Even lay readers who are interested in understanding the modern Arab or Islamic world may grasp something of the currents of thought and belief through the centuries that produced these important works which continue to exert a powerful influence upon Muslims today The primary literatures of Islam are normally classified into several areas of study the canonical literature the interpretation of scripture and tradition law theology philosophy history and mysticism Entries here are organized into these areas of study and represent the most significant texts from important trends in the discipline The volume also includes an extensive bibliography that lists the editions of primary sources analyzed in each chapter There are also some suggestions for secondary reading which might be helpful to a student seeking additional information about each genre of literature
