Gender, Nationalism and Conflict Transformation Fidelma Ashe, 2019-03-07 Utilising Northern Ireland as a case study this book presents an analysis of the gender and sexual politics of conflict transformation The book synthesises a vast array of international sources with the author's empirical and theoretical research to produce a powerful gendered critique of conflict transformation in Northern Ireland It maps the negative effects of the region's violent conflict on gender and sexual equality and explores the potential of the conflict transformational processes set in motion by the 1998 Peace Agreement to transform relationships between different genders and sexualities Starting from the feminist proposition that building peace requires the inclusion of issues of gender and sexual equality the author analyses how the new institutional and semantic structures of conflict transformation in Northern Ireland preserved older conservative narratives about gender and sexuality As older narratives clashed with progressive forms of sexual and gender politics the core sites of conflict transformation became arenas of gender and sexual struggles The book outlines these struggles and charts the positive and inclusive visions of peace developed by activists throughout the period of conflict transformation This book will be of much interest to students of gender studies conflict transformation ethnic conflict peace studies and Irish politics

What Comes after Entanglement? Eva Haifa Giraud, 2019-10-18 By foregrounding the ways that human existence is bound together with the lives of other entities contemporary cultural theorists have sought to move beyond an anthropocentric worldview Yet as Eva Haifa Giraud contends in What Comes after Entanglement for all their conceptual power in implicating humans in ecologically damaging practices these theories can undermine scope for political action Drawing inspiration from activist projects between the 1980s and the present that range from anticapitalist media experiments and vegan food activism to social media campaigns against animal research Giraud explores possibilities for action while fleshing out the tensions between theory and practice Rather than an activist ethics based solely on relationality and entanglement Giraud calls for what she describes as an ethics of exclusion which would attend to the entities practices and ways of being that are foreclosed when other entangled realities are realized Such an ethics of exclusion emphasizes foreclosures in the context of human entanglement in order to foster the conditions for people to create meaningful political change

Hall, 2021-08-03 The U S government's prime enemy in the War on Terror is not a shadowy mastermind dispatching suicide bombers It is the informed American citizen With Manufacturing Militarism Christopher J Coyne and Abigail R Hall detail how military propaganda has targeted Americans since 9 11 From the darkened cinema to the football field to the airport screening line the U S government has purposefully inflated the actual threat of terrorism and the necessity of a proactive military response This biased incomplete and misleading information contributes to a broader culture of fear and militarism that far from keeping Americans safe ultimately threatens the foundations of a free society Applying a political economic approach to the incentives created by a democratic system with a massive national security state Coyne and Hall delve into case studies from the War on Terror to show how propaganda operates in a democracy As they vigilantly watch their carry ons scanned at the airport despite nonexistent threats or absorb glowing representations of the military from films Americans are subject to propaganda that Coyne and Hall argue erodes government by citizen consent

Language and History in Adorno's Notes to Literature Ulrich Plass, 2013-11-15 Language and History in Theodor W Adorno's Notes to Literature explores Adorno's essays on literature as an independent contribution to his aesthetics with an emphasis on his theory and practice of literary interpretation Essential to Adorno's essays is his unorthodox treatment of language and history and his elaboration of the links between the two One of Adorno's major but often neglected claims is that truth is relative to its historical medium language Adorno persistently and creatively tries to narrow the gulf between truth and expression philosophy and rhetoric and his essays on literature are practical examples of his effort to critically rescue the rhetorical dimension of philosophy Rather than relying exclusively on aesthetic concepts inherited from his predecessors in the Western tradition Kant Hegel Nietzsche Kierkegaard Adorno's essays seek to transgress and transcend the conceptual limitations of aesthetic discourse by appropriating a non conceptual metaphorical vocabulary borrowed from the literary texts he investigates Thus Adorno's interpretations of literature mobilize an alternative subterranean primarily essayistic and fragmentary discourse on language and history that eludes the categories that tend to predominate his thinking in his major work Aesthetic Theory This book puts forth the claim that Adorno's essays on literature are of central relevance for an understanding of his aesthetics because they challenge the conceptual limitations of philosophical discourse
