The Color Purple , 2018

Multiculturalism and Identity Politics Kalika Shah, 2019-12-20 This book aims at analysing the fiction produced by the expatriate Parsee writers of the Indian subcontinent Bapsi Sidhwa Rohinton Mistry and Boman Desai These Parsee writers of the South Asian origin have emigrated to Canada and USA in the latter part of the twentieth century Their works offer several possibilities seen from the multicultural point of view The fiction of these Parsee diasporic writers examines the problem of migration relocation and changing identities from a vantage point of distance gained by an insider's view of their community and an outsider's view from the host country Dislocations even when voluntary always have a traumatic side to it due to the process of acculturation assimilation into or differences with the host country and the issue of rights and privileges in the new location For the diasporic communities of different backgrounds their memory history and cultural beliefs are the important factors that determine their identities These Parsee novels demonstrate how individual and group collective identities of the Parsees get constructed and reconstructed redefined against the changing multinational contexts

The Language of the Heart Trysh Travis, 2010-01-01 In The Language of the Heart Trysh Travis explores the rich cultural history of Alcoholics Anonymous AA and its offshoots and the larger recovery movement that has grown out of them Moving from AA's beginnings in the mid 1930s as a men's fellowship that met in church basements to the thoroughly commercialized addiction treatment centers of today Travis chronicles the development of recovery and examines its relationship to the broad American tradition of self help highlighting the roles that gender mysticism and bibliotherapy have played in that development

Women and the Historical Enterprise in America: Gender, Race and the Politics of Memory Julie Des Jardins, 2004-07-21 In Women and the Historical Enterprise in America Julie Des Jardins explores American women's participation in the practice of history from the late nineteenth century through the end of World War II a period in which history became professionalized as an increasingly masculine field of scientific inquiry Des Jardins shows how women nevertheless transformed the profession during these years in their roles as writers preservationists educators archivists government workers and social activists Des Jardins explores the work of a wide variety of women historians both professional and amateur popular and scholarly conservative and radical white and nonwhite Although their ability to earn professional credentials and gain research access to official documents was limited by their gender and often by their race these historians addressed important new questions and represented social groups traditionally omitted from the historical record such as workers African Americans Native Americans and religious minorities Assessing the historical contributions of Mary Beard Zora Neale Hurston Angie Debo Mari Sandoz Lucy Salmon Mary McLeod Bethune Dorothy Porter Nellie Neilson and many others Des Jardins argues that women working within the broadest confines of the historical enterprise collectively brought the new perspectives of social and cultural history to the study of a multifaceted American past In the process they not only developed the field of women s history but also influenced the creation of our national memory in the twentieth century
