

The Last Question – Isaac Asimov

The last question was asked for the first time, half in jest, on May 21, 2061, at a time when humanity first stepped into the light. The question came about as a result of a five-dollar bet over highballs, and it happened this way:

Alexander Adell and Bertram Lupov were two of the faithful attendants of Multivac. As well as any human beings could, they knew what lay behind the cold, clicking, flashing face — miles and miles of face — of that giant computer. They had at least a vague notion of the general plan of relays and circuits that had long since grown past the point where any single human could possibly have a firm grasp of the whole.

Multivac was self-adjusting and self-correcting. It had to be, for nothing human could adjust and correct it quickly enough or even adequately enough. So Adell and Lupov attended the monstrous giant only lightly and superficially, yet as well as any men could. They fed it data, adjusted questions to its needs and translated the answers that were issued. Certainly they, and all others like them, were fully entitled to share in the glory that was Multivac's.

For decades, Multivac had helped design the ships and plot the trajectories that enabled man to reach the Moon, Mars, and Venus, but past that, Earth's poor resources could not support the ships. Too much energy was needed for the long trips. Earth exploited its coal and uranium with increasing efficiency, but there was only so much of both.

Urban Multilingualism in Europe Guus Extra, Kutlay Yağmur, 2004 This book focuses on the increase of urban multilingualism in Europe as a consequence of processes of migration and minorisation It offers multidisciplinary crossnational and crosslinguistic perspectives on immigrant minority languages at home and in school in six multicultural cities across Europe In each of these cities Germanic or Romance languages have a dominant status in public life This Multilingual Cities Project is based on large scale empirical findings and has been carried out under the auspices of the European Cultural Foundation in Amsterdam Part I offers multidisciplinary background information on phenomenological demographic language rights and educational aspects of the status of immigrant minority communities and their languages in a variety of international contexts Part II offers methodological considerations on the Multilingual Cities Project In addition it presents both national and local perspectives on multilingualism in each of the six cities under consideration Each chapter provides information on the distribution and vitality of immigrant minority languages spoken at home and on the status of these languages in primary and secondary schools Part III offers crossnational and crosslinguistic perspectives on the twenty most prominent languages that emerge from the study The focus is again on the two major private and public domains in which language transmission may or may not occur the home and the school respectively The book offers a challenging outlook on the educational management of language diversity in the increasingly multicultural and multilingual context of European nation states Technical Report New Mexico State University of Agriculture, Engineering, and Science. Engineering Experiment Station,1965 The Palestine Question in International Law Victor Kattan,2008 The question of Palestine has been a pivotal one for international law ever since the foundation of the UN in 1945 It remains so today On July 9 2004 the International Court of Justice ICJ gave its advisory opinion on the Legal Consequences of the Construction of a Wall in Occupied Palestinian Territory It ruled on some major international law questions concerning the applicability of the Geneva Civilians Convention of 1949 to prolonged occupations as well as human rights law more generally It confirmed the illegality of the Israeli civilian settlements established on occupied Palestinian territory and affirmed the continuing relevancy of the right of the Palestinian people to self determination which it considered an obligation erga omnes The ICJ did not however rule on many of the international law questions pertaining to Final Status Issues which still need to be negotiated between the Israeli and Palestinian leadership if peace is to ever be accomplished in the Holy Land In this series of essays some of the most important questions relating to the Israel Palestine conflict are addressed and reproduced in one complete volume coinciding with the 60th anniversary of the creation of Israel and the demise of the British mandate of Palestine *Price V.
