conceived during the Soviet Union's return to normality following World War II. Well educated, articulate and loosely networked even today, they were first graders the year the USSR launched Sputnik and grew up in a country that increasingly distanced itself from the excesses of Stalinism. Reaching middle age during the Gorbachev Revolution, they negotiated the transition to a Russian style market economy and remain active, productive members of society in Russia and the diaspora. In candid interviews with Donald J. Raleigh, these Soviet baby boomers talk about the historical times in which they grew up but also about their everyday experiences, their family backgrounds, childhood pastimes, favorite books, movies and music, and influential people in their lives. These personal testimonies shed valuable light on Soviet childhood and adolescence, on the reasons and course of perestroika, and on the wrenching transition that has taken place since the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991.

In The Representation of Speech Events in Chariton's Callirhoe and the Acts of the Apostles, Adrian T. Smith summarizes cross linguistic research on how and why narrators vary the formulae that introduce direct speech. This research is applied to Chariton and to Acts. The findings demonstrate that narrators vary quotation formulae for numerous pragmatic purposes, including the tracking of conversational dynamics via a set of marked and unmarked quotation devices.

From the very infancy of the film industry, filmmakers have relied heavily upon literature as the foundation for their movie material. Well known literary works such as Dickens's A Christmas Carol and Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter were adapted to film in the silent era, as were such books as Thomas Dixon Jr.'s The Klansman, basis for the film Birth of a Nation. In recent years, Nick Hornsby's About a Boy and each of Helen Fielding's Bridget Jones's Diary novels were the basis for popular movies bearing the same names. A guide to English language works that have been adapted as theatrical and television films, this volume includes books, both fiction and non-fiction, short stories, newspaper and magazine articles, and poems. Entries are arranged alphabetically by literary title, with cross listings for films made under different titles. Each entry includes the original work's title, author, year of first publication, literary prizes, and a brief plot summary. Information on film adaptation, s of the work, including adaptation titles, director, screenwriter, principal cast, and the names of the characters they portray, major awards, and availability in the most common formats, DVD, VHS, is also offered.
