Understanding Mega Free Trade Agreements Jean-Baptiste Velut, Louise Dalingwater, Vanessa Boulet, Valérie Peyronel, 2017-08-23 The rise of cross regional trade agreements is a defining trend of the current international trade system as shown by the signing of the Trans Pacific Partnership TPP in 2015 the negotiations for the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership TTIP between the USA and the EU as well as the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership RCEP between countries in Asia and Oceania These differ from previous agreements in their economic significance and large geographic scale and the wide scope of trade related issues The current rise of nationalist and isolationist ideologies across Europe and the USA has raised questions on the future of cross regional trade deals and made the need to understand their implications for economic and political governance ever more urgent Two main forms of governance that are central to this volume are the democratic tensions over new generation trade deals on the one hand and their geopolitical ramifications on the other which have come into collision to herald the advent of a highly uncertain period of world politics Many of the questions tackled in this volume surrounding the democratic governance of trade agreements whether long held debates on the inclusion of workers voices controversies on intrusive behind the border provisions undermining national sovereignty and local autonomy or new questions on digital rights are crucial to understand the ebbing popular support for far reaching trade agreements This book will be a useful learning tool for students and scholars in a wide range of fields including Globalisation Global Governance International Political Economy International Trade and Investment and International Law and should also be of interest to EU trade negotiators international policymakers and business associations Trade Politics Brian Hocking, Steven McGuire, 2019-01-15 Trade has always been an intensely political activity Its conduct determines the well being of entire national communities and expansion of trade since the Second World War has been one of the major engines of world economic growth In this new fully updated edition leading experts from around the world provide a comprehensive overview of the politics of international trade in the twenty first century The book explains the changing political environment in which trade policy is shaped the core political issues the future trade agenda and the role of the key actors Subjects covered include transatlantic trade relations regional trading agreements in Asia Europe North America and Latin America how trade affects developing countries the politics of the World Trade Organization key policy areas such as agriculture competition and intellectual property the role of firms and governments in international trade how trade impacts on human rights and the environment Guide to the GATs: An Overview of Issues for Further Liberalization of Trade in Services World Trade Organization. Secretariat, 2001-08-20 This work brings together in one volume the background papers on major service sectors prepared by the WTO Secretariat for the WTO s Council for Trade in Services in preparation for the new round of negotiations which started in January 2000 Following an analysis of the economic effects of services liberalization 19 chapters on individual service sectors consider the issues which WTO Members need to consider when framing their negotiating positions and objectives for the new round and preparing their industries for a more open trading environment the economic importance of the sector the manner in which it is regulated and traded problems of definition and classification and the pattern of commitments undertaken by Member governments under the GATS Many of the papers also identify prevalent forms of trade restriction or discrimination and suggest areas for further work In addition the work includes a detailed description of the structure of services commitments as submitted by WTO Members with respect to the four modes of supply which constitute the definition of trade in services under the GATS The contributions have been provided by experts of the Trade in Services Division of the WTO Secretariat with responsibility for the services or subjects in question

The EU, the WTO and China Francis Snyder, 2010-09-02 This book presents a new theoretical framework for understanding the regulation of international trade For this purpose it analyses a series of integrated studies of relations between the EU the WTO and China It consists of three main parts Part I introduces the basic concepts It surveys the literature on law and globalisation introduces the concept of sites of governance and the theory of global legal pluralism and sketches the foundations of global legal pluralism It shows that each site of governance has both a structural dimension consisting of institutions norms and dispute resolution processes and a relational dimension comprising its relations with other sites of governance The totality of sites of governance constitutes a new form of global legal pluralism Part II analyses global legal pluralism in action in relations between the EU the WTO and China It examines the construction of relations between sites ways in which relations between sites give rise to new legal concepts or transform the character of rules the tension between regionalism and international integration and the governance of international production networks It emphasises the reciprocal interaction between the structural features and the relational features of sites Part III explores new directions in global legal pluralism It first analyses regional trade agreements as a way of creating new sites of governance focusing on agreements involving China Then it considers how to enhance ethical values in international trade regulation Based on an institutional analysis of relations between the WTO and other sites of governance it proposes ways in which global legal pluralism can be used to reform the WTO today the predominant institution in the regulation of international trade including trade between the EU and China

Brown,2012-01-01 Abbe Brown s new work provides a welcome and extremely valuable addition of the human rights dimension to the long standing conflict over essential technologies between intellectual property and competition law Steven Anderman University of Essex UK and University of Stockholm Sweden Much has been written on the flexibilities available within the intellectual property system to address development and social needs This book goes a step further it explores how greater access to essential technologies can be ensured through human rights and competition law Although the analysis is focused on UK and the European Union the book provides valuable insights for assessing the situation in other jurisdictions The author suggests an innovative approach for courts and legislators to overcome in the light of public interest considerations the limits imposed by intellectual property rights This book is a much welcomed contribution to academic and policy debates on the subject Carlos M Correa University of Buenos Aires Argentina Intellectual property interacts or clashes with human rights and competition law The refreshing bit about this book is that a detailed practical approach to the inevitable balancing act is proposed Abbe Brown explains how a human rights approach is the cornerstone of such a balancing approach and how positive results can be achieved towards unblocking essential technologies And it can be done in the existing international legal framework even if the latter could be improved Well researched challenging and interesting reading Paul Torremans University of Nottingham UK Abbe Brown s study starts from the assumption that IP right owners particularly those of innovative technologies dispose of a disproportionate strong legal position in relation to that of competitors and customers which is detrimental to society at large Brown investigates how the power of the IP right owners can be limited by applying existing human rights law and competition law To that aim it is suggested to widen the legal landscape and to develop a more tripartite substantive approach to IP law human rights law and competition law Brown s study offers a very welcome new contribution to the literature on the functioning of IP law by stressing the joint role which competition law and human rights law can play in this respect F Willem Grosheide Utrecht University and Attorney at law Van Doorne Amsterdam The Netherlands This detailed book explores the relationship between intellectual property competition and human rights It considers the extent to which they can and must be combined by decision makers and how this approach can foster innovation in key areas for society such as pharmaceutical drugs communications software and technology to combat climate change The author argues that these three legal fields are strongly interrelated and that they can be used to identify essential technologies She demonstrates that in some cases combining the fields can deliver new bases for wider access to be provided to technologies The solutions developed are strongly based on existing laws with a focus on the UK and the EU and the structures of existing forms of dispute resolution including the European Court of Human Rights and the dispute settlement bodies of the World Trade Organisation The final chapters also suggest opportunities for further engagement at international policy and activist level new approaches to IP and its treaties and wider adoption of the proposals This timely book will appeal to academics and practitioners in IP competition and human rights as well as innovation related industry groups and access to knowledge health and environment activists
