Languages and the First World War: Representation and Memory Christophe Declercq, Julian Walker, 2016-05-19 With several terms from the First World War still present in modern speech Languages and the First World War presents over 30 essays by international academics investigating the linguistic aspects of the 1914-18 conflict. The first of the two volumes covers language change and documentation during the period of the war while the second examines the representation and the memory of the war. Communicating in a Transnational War examines languages at the front including the subject of interpretation, translation and parallels between languages, communication with the home front, propaganda and language manipulation and recording language during the war. Representation and Memory examines historiographical issues, the nature of representing the war in letters and diaries, the documentation of language change, the language of representing the war in reportage and literature and the language of remembering the war. Covered in the process are slang, censorship, soldiers' phrasebooks, code switching, borrowing terms, the problems facing multilingual armies and gendered language.

Defective Inspectors: Crime-fiction Pastiche in Late Twentieth-century French Literature Simon Kemp, 2017-07-05 Crime fiction is a popular target for literary pastiche in France. From the nouveau roman and the Oulipo group to the current avant-garde writers have seized on the genre to exploit it for their own ends, toying with its traditional plots and characters and exploring its preoccupations with perception, reason and truth. In the first full-length study of the phenomenon, Simon Kemp's investigation centres on four major writers of the twentieth century: Alain Robbe-Grillet (b. 1922), Michel Butor (b. 1926), Georges Perec (1936-82) and Jean Echenoz (b. 1947). Out of their varied encounters with the genre, from deconstruction of the classic detective story to homage to the roman noir, Kemp elucidates the complex relationship between the pasticheur and his target, which demands an entirely new assessment of pastiche as a literary form. The Art of Urban Living Christian Emden, Catherine Keen, David Midgley, 2006 This volume is based on papers given at the conference Imagining the City held in Cambridge in 2004. Together they examine the city as imagined space and as a matrix for imagined worlds using French, German, English, Italian, Russian and North American examples. French Fiction into the Twenty-First Century Simon Kemp, 2010-07-15 Explores the state of French fiction through an examination of the work of five major French writers: Annie Ernaux, Pascal Quignard, Marie Darrieussecq, Jean Echenoz and Patrick Modiano. This book deals with some of the writers on British and American university French courses. Death Representations in Literature Adriana Teodorescu, 2015-01-12 If the academic field of death studies is a prosperous one, there still seems to be a level of mistrust concerning the capacity of literature to provide socially relevant information about death and to help improve the anthropological understanding of how culture is shaped by the human condition of mortality. Furthermore, the relationship between literature and death tends to be trivialized in the sense that death representations are interpreted in an over-aestheticized manner. As such, this approach has a propensity to consider death in literature to be significant only for literary studies and gives rise to certain persistent clichés.

s such as the power of literature to annihilate death This volume overcomes such stereotypes and reveals the great potential of literary studies to provide fresh and accurate ways of interrogating death as a steady and unavoidable human reality and as an ever continuing socio cultural construction The volume brings together researchers from various countries the USA the UK France Poland New Zealand Canada India Germany Greece and Romania with different academic backgrounds in fields as diverse as literature art history social studies criminology musicology and cultural studies and provides answers to questions such as What are the features of death representations in certain literary genres Is it possible to speak of an homogeneous vision of death in the case of some literary movements How do writers perceive imagine and describe their death through their personal diaries or how do they metabolize the death of the significant others through their writings To what extent does the literary representation of death refer to the extra fictional socio historically constructed Death Is it moral to represent death in children s literature What are the differences and similarities between representing death in literature and death representations in other connected fields Are metaphors and literary representations of death forms of death denial or on the contrary a more insightful way of capturing the meaning of death Reading the Times Randall Stevenson,2018-02-01 Wartime British writers took to the airwaves to reshape the nation and the Empire The Cambridge Companion to French Literature John D. Cruikshank contextualizes and reads the work of four influential writers of prose fiction Angot Echenoz Houellebecq and Redonnet teasing out each one's response to this convergence She suggests that the recurrent fictional and cultural trope of the turning point has both aesthetic and critical potential Bringing together analyses spanning literature thought and culture she identifies and critiques the ways in which on the eve of the twenty first century different theoretical and fictional approaches confront the manipulation of crisis discourses Drawing on a long twentieth century of crisis thinking Cruikshank counters the perception that a postmodern model of perpetual crisis is culturally dominant and established French XX Bibliography, Issue #65 Sheri K. entendre com s'inicia l'artista en un circuit i quins mecanismes es fan servir per absorbir-lo. Així com s'allunya l'art de ser una eina política crítica de pensament i es converteix en producció i per tant en un producte més del context postfordista. A partir del canvi de paradigma sobre la idea d'exposició amb l'objectiu de donar visibilitat a obres una visibilitat necessària perquè arribin a ser art. Daniel Gasol es pregunta si l'artista s'adapta a la producció institucional que sentim com a art. L'autor també valora si per contra s'la exposició institucional la que dota el treball d'una importància hipotètica amb la conseqüència indirecta de generar legitimitat creacions confrontants de semblen a formal i conceptual. Gasol explora l'existència de diversos tipus de creació o contextos que projecten què ha de ser art així com sobre què considerem art emergent o obra expositiva. També qüestiona les institucions adients per exhibir produccions artístiques i com el sistema del capital i laboral afecta la creació i l'exposició d'art.

New Musical Figurations Ronald M. Radano, 2009-05-20. New Musical Figurations exemplifica una dramàticament nova manera de configurar el jazz i la història relacionant la biografia amb els contorns culturals i musicals contemporanis de la vida americana. Ronald M. Radano observa el jazz com a part de la complexa interrelació de la cultura postmoderna, una cultura que ha erodit les categories definidores del jazz i del músic de jazz. Radano aconsegueix tot això analitzant la vida creativa d'Anthony Braxton, una de les figures més emblemàtiques d'aquesta crisi. Born in 1945, Braxton is not only a virtuoso jazz saxophonist but an innovative theoretician and composer of experimental art music. His refusal to conform to the conventions of official musical culture has helped unhinge the very ideologies on which definitions of jazz, black music, popular music, and art music are founded. New Musical Figurations gives the richest view available of this many-sided artist. Radano examines Braxton's early years on the South Side of Chicago, whose vibrant black musical legacy inspired him to explore new avenues of expression. Here is the first detailed history of Braxton's central role in the Association for the Advancement of Creative Musicians, the principal musician-run institution of free jazz in the United States. After leaving Chicago, Braxton was active in Paris and New York, collaborating with Philip Glass, Steve Reich, Frederic Rzewski, and other composers affiliated with the experimental music movement. From 1974 to 1981, he gained renown as a popular jazz performer and recording artist. Since then, he has taught at Mills College and Wesleyan University, given lectures on his theoretical musical system, and written works for chamber groups as well as large opera-scale pieces. The neglect of radical, challenging figures like Braxton in standard histories of jazz, Radano argues, mutes the innovative voice of the African American musical tradition. Refreshingly free of technical jargon, New Musical Figurations is more than just another variation on the same jazz theme. Rather, it is an exploratory work as rich in theoretical vision as it is in historical detail.
