Handbook on Decision Making Chee

Peng Lim, 2010-09-07 Decision making arises when we wish to select the best possible course of action from a set of alternatives. With advancements of the digital technologies it is easy and almost instantaneous to gather a large volume of information and/or data pertaining to a problem that we want to solve. For instance, the World Wide Web is perhaps the primary source of information and/or data that we often turn to when we face a decision making problem. However, the information and/or data that we obtain from the real world often are complex and comprise various kinds of noise. Besides, real world information and/or data often are incomplete and ambiguous owing to uncertainties of the environments. All these make decision making a challenging task. To cope with the challenges of decision making, searchers have designed and developed a variety of decision support systems to provide assistance in human decision making processes. The main aim of this book is to provide a small collection of techniques stemmed from artificial intelligence as well as other complementary methodologies that are useful for the design and development of intelligent decision support systems. Application examples of how these intelligent decision support systems can be utilized to help tackle a variety of real world problems in different main areas, e.g., business management, manufacturing, transportation, and food industries and biomedicine are also presented. A total of twenty chapters which can be broadly divided into two parts, i.e.,
