Canada Diane F. Eaton, Garfield Newman, 1994 Human Rights, Diversity, and National Identity Patricia E. Bromley, 2011 Fundamental world changes that simultaneously undermine a nation state's charisma and promote the rise of a supra national system have wide ranging effects upon national states within a modern global society My dissertation empirically examines the effects of social and cultural globalization on systems of mass schooling which are central institutions in every country Globally primary and secondary education initially emerged as the premier tool for nation states to create a unified national citizenry loyal to their country and socialized into a common cultural tradition I examine the extent to which this original nationalizing purpose of schooling is challenged by the increased emphases on universal human rights and diversity in civic education The analyses consist of two sections Hierarchical linear models are used to analyze a unique primary data source of 521 social science textbooks from 74 countries during the period 1970-2008. These findings show a worldwide increase in emphasis on human rights and increases in discussions of diversity in well established liberal democracies. Cross national quantitative analyses are complemented by a qualitative case study of social science curricula in British Columbia BC which examines nation building within a context of strong emphasis on diversity and human rights. The BC study utilizes currently approved high school citizenship education textbooks as well as older textbooks dating back to 1871. It also draws on a selection of historical documents including Ministry of Education reports, curricular frameworks and high school exit exams. Process wise I find the incorporation of human rights and diversity reflects macro level changes in national and global society. Content wise I find four main approaches to reconciling ideas of human rights and diversity with national identity: 1. framing human rights and multiculturalism as part of national identity, 2. using pedagogical approaches that promote multiple perspectives and individual agency, 3. celebrating social and scientific figures and accomplishments as the source of national pride, and 4. drawing on exogenous sources to affirm state legitimacy. This study is one of the first to theorize that civic education worldwide is moving away from a national focus and to provide empirical evidence of this trend. A key implication is that educational systems are being repurposed from their original goal of constructing a unitary national citizenry to a new view emphasizing human diversity and equality in a globally interconnected world. Further, students are increasingly taught that the global civil society and non state actors are important and legitimate agents of social change.

Energy Research Abstracts, 1987 Interpreting Censorship in Canada Allan C. Hutchinson, Klaus

Petersen, 1999-01-01. Socially organized activity cannot occur without censorship. Going beyond ideological arguments, this collection of essays explores the extent of censorship in Canada today, the forms censorship takes, and the interests it serves.

Industrial Canada, 1928 As I Recall John Meisel, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1999. This collection of papers seeks to bridge the divide between English and French Canada by bringing to light the distinctive viewpoints of those two sides regarding historical events. It chronicles 34 events that have marked political relations between the two linguistic communities from the arrival of the British in 1759 through to the 1995 Quebec referendum. Each event is summarized from the viewpoint of both Anglophones and Francophones. Chapter 1 covers early events including the British conquest, the 1830s rebellions, Confederation, and the hanging of Louis Riel. Chapter 2 covers the making of the welfare state, including unemployment insurance, tax, rental agreements, pension plans, and health insurance. Chapter 3 covers Canadian identity events such as the creation of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, adoption of a new flag, and bilingualism/multiculturalism policies. Chapter 4 covers events in Quebec since the Quiet Revolution, including the DeGaulle visit in 1967, the October 1970 crisis, Quebec language laws, and the 1982 patriation of the Constitution. Chapter 5 covers economic debates, including the Churchill Falls power contract and the Canada-US Free Trade Agreement. The final chapter is entitled 'Failed reconciliation' and includes papers on the Meech Lake Accord, the 1990 crisis at Oka, and the Charlottetown Accord of 1992. Includes index.
