Bewitching Development James Howard Smith, 2009-10-15 These days development inspires scant trust in the West For critics who condemn centralized efforts to plan African societies as latter day imperialism such plans too closely reflect their roots in colonial rule and neoliberal economics But proponents of this pessimistic view often ignore how significant this concept has become for Africans themselves In Bewitching Development James Howard Smith presents a close ethnographic account of how people in the Taita Hills of Kenya have appropriated and made sense of development thought and practice focusing on the complex ways that development connects with changing understandings of witchcraft Similar to magic development's promise of a better world elicits both hope and suspicion from Wataita Smith shows that the unforeseen changes wrought by development greater wealth for some dashed hopes for many more foster moral debates that Taita people express in occult terms By carefully chronicling the beliefs and actions of this diverse community from frustrated youths to nostalgic seniors duplicitous preachers to thought provoking witch doctors Bewitching Development vividly depicts the social life of formerly foreign ideas and practices in postcolonial Africa

African Socialism in Postcolonial Tanzania Priya Lal, 2015-12 Drawing on a wide range of oral and written sources this book tells the story of Tanzania's socialist experiment the ujamaa villagization initiative of 1967-75 Inaugurated shortly after independence ujamaa familyhood in Swahili both invoked established socialist themes and departed from the existing global repertoire of development policy seeking to reorganize the Tanzanian countryside into communal villages to achieve national development Priya Lal investigates how Tanzanian leaders and rural people creatively envisioned ujamaa and documents how villagization unfolded on the ground without affixing the project to a trajectory of inevitable failure By forging an empirically rich and conceptually nuanced account of ujamaa African Socialism in Postcolonial Tanzania restores a sense of possibility and process to the early years of African independence refines prevailing theories of nation building and development and expands our understanding of the 1960s and 70s world

Sorcery in the Black Atlantic Luis Nicolau Parés, Roger Sansi, 2011-01-15 Most scholarship on sorcery and witchcraft has narrowly focused on specific times and places particularly early modern Europe and twentieth century Africa And much of that research interprets sorcery as merely a remnant of premodern traditions Boldly challenging these views Sorcery in the Black Atlantic takes a longer historical and broader geographical perspective contending that sorcery is best understood as an Atlantic phenomenon that has significant connections to modernity and globalization A distinguished group of contributors here examine sorcery in Brazil Cuba South Africa Cameroon and Angola Their insightful essays reveal the way practices and accusations of witchcraft spread throughout the Atlantic world from the age of discovery up to the present creating an indelible link between sorcery and the rise of global capitalism Shedding new light on a topic of perennial interest Sorcery in the Black Atlantic will be provocative compelling reading for historians and anthropologists working in this growing field African Pentecostals in Catholic Europe Annalisa Buttici, 2016-04-04 Catholic Italy is a destination for migrants from Nigeria and Ghana who bring their own form of Christianity Pentecostalism the most Protestant of Christian faiths At the heart of Annalisa Buttici's ethnography is a paradox Believers on both sides are driven by a desire to find sensuous material ways to make the divine visible and tangible Patterns in Circulation Nina Sylvanus, 2016-12-07 In this book Nina Sylvanus tells a captivating story of global trade and cross cultural aesthetics in West Africa showing how a group of Togolese women through the making and circulation of wax cloth became influential agents of taste and history Traveling deep into the shifting terrain of textile manufacture design and trade she follows wax cloth around the world and through time to unveil its critical role in colonial and postcolonial patterns of exchange and value production Sylvanus brings wax cloth's unique and complex history to light born as a nineteenth century Dutch colonial effort to copy Javanese batik cloth for Southeast Asian markets it was reborn as a status marker that has dominated the visual economy of West African markets Although most wax cloth is produced in China today it continues to be central to the expression of West African women's identity and power As Sylvanus shows wax cloth expresses more than this global motion of goods capital aesthetics and labor it is a form of archive where intimate and national memories are stored always ready to be reanimated by human touch By uncovering this crucial aspect of West African material culture she enriches our understanding of global trade the mutual negotiations that drive it and the how these create different forms of agency and subjectivity African Studies Review ,2008 Africa Today ,2009
