How to Build a Café Racer Doug Mitchel, 2013 What's old is new again and the newest trend on the block is Café Racers Written by well known motorcycle and automotive author Doug Mitchel How to Build a Café Racer starts with a history lesson While those first bikes were built in the UK for racing from café to café the current rage for Café Racers has definitely spread to the US Converting a stock motorcycle to a Café Racer requires more than a fairing and a few decals The book starts with chapters on planning and choosing an appropriate bike followed by chapters that detail the modifications that will likely be embraced by anyone converting a stocker to a rocker From shocks and tires to engine modifications Doug's book lays out each type of modification and how it's best carried through The center of the book holds a gallery of finished bikes These are not just Triumphs or Nortons but nearly every brand imaginable from Japan Italy the UK and Germany The final chapters include two start to finish café builds This is the chance for the reader to see how professional shops take a stock Honda Triumph or Ducati and convert it into a fast sexy and functional Café Racer ready to race from café to café on Saturday night or around the race track on Sunday afternoon

Italian Café Racers Uli Cloesen, 2014 A celebration of the spectacular café racers from around the globe created by individuals and all based on Italian motorcycles The Bulletin, 2006 Everything You Need to Know about Café Racers Keagan Smith, 2015-06-19 Café Racer has two meanings because it can denote a type of a motorcycle or a person who rides on the bike the motorcyclist The two meanings date back to the 1960s in the Rockers group which was a British Counterculture organization It can also be referred to as the Ton up Club The group was predominantly established in Britain but it was common too in Germany Italy and some other European nations The Rockers were a defiant group of young counterculture men who were hungry for speed and hence they had to derive a way to customize motorbikes to fit the speed they wanted The distinctive bikes were meant to travel from one transport café to another on the arterial motorways that interlinked British cities and towns The motive of redesigning a standard motorbike to fit the specifications of a Café Racer was to attain a speed of 11 miles per hour which was referred to as the ton The rockers would take challenges of record racing where a rider would ride from a café to a predetermined place and back to the same café before a song could play to the end on the jukebox A racer could for example race from Ace Café that is situated on The North Circular Road NW London to the then Hanger
